S. A. Building Mark Over $3,000,000

RECORD IS SMASHED IN CITY

1922 Total Exceeded by More Than $850,000 in Seven Months

MILLION INCREASE OVER ALL OF 1921

$60,000 Business, Apartment Structure to Be Built on W. Fourth

Santa Ana's new building value total for 1923 today had passed the $3,000,000 mark.

Issuance of a $60,000 permit to G. H. Bunting for the erection of a two-story business and apartment building at 1301-11 West Fourth street just at the close of business late yesterday by W. S. Decker, building inspector, established the record.

Sets New Record

In less than seven months, Santa Ana has established a new building record this year of over 80 per cent of the entire last year's total which was $3,771,831. The total to date exceeds that of the first seven months of last year by more than $850,000.

It is an increase over the entire year of 1921 by $1,000,000.

Seven permits were issued during Decker's business hours yesterday for $30,360 in new buildings, making a total for the month of 56 permits for $214,171, and for the year 881 permits for $3,023,403 in new buildings, the records showed.

Decker expressed further assurance that the 1923 total would exceed $6,000,000 before the close of the year.

"We have many large building permits in sight," he declared. "There will be a permit for a $75,000 theater, more than $150,000 for a market, a ten-story building to cost $600,000, and other large permits. We should reach $6,000,000 with ease."

AWARD LA HABRA HIGHWAY PROJECT

La Habra's big road-building program took more definite shape today when the board of supervisors awarded the contract for road district No. 22 to George E. Curtis, Los Angeles county contractor, on a bid of $205,000.

Today's proceedings marked the second opening of bids on the contract, previous bids having been rejected.

The contract calls for full width paving, curbs, gutters and storm drains on Central, Cypress and Walnut avenues, with eighteen-foot paving on Ocean avenue. All of the streets mentioned are principal thoroughfares in the La Habra district.

"30" Bulletins

A permit was issued late today to the Santa Ana Development company for erection of a $125,000 addition to the Grand Central market to contain store space and 29 apartments on the property adjoining the present market between Sycamore street and Broadway, facing Second street, according to W. S. Decker, building inspector. Issuance of the permit carried the total permits for the month to 56 for $339,171 in new buildings, and for the year to 883 permits for $3,148,553 in new buildings, the records showed.

CHICAGO, July 17.—Five persons were seriously injured and 100 employees were driven to the street when an explosion destroyed the ammonia plant of Morris and company, packers, here today. Fire caused $50,000 damages.

KIDNAPERS APPLY ACID TO BODY OF OKLAHOMA WOMAN

OKMULGEE, Okla., July 17.—Mrs. George Petipol reported to police here today that she was kidnapped off the streets of Tulsa last night and forced to accompany her abductors to Okmulgee, where she was tortured.

Four men and a woman seized her, she said.

Mrs. Petipol, American wife of a Greek restaurant proprietor in Tulsa, said the kidnaping party poured carbolic acid over her body and cut her hair off.

"We are going to mail your hair to your husband. He will know the meaning of it," she quoted one of the kidnapers as saying.

HUSBAND ALSO VICTIM OF MOB ATTACK

TULSA, Okla., July 17.—George Petipol, whose wife reported to police in Okmulgee that she had been kidnapped and tortured, was severely flogged by a masked band a few months ago.

At that time he reported to police that the men who administered the whipping informed him he was being punished for "living with a white woman."

Connors declared that the state and county authorities "are discovering today that jurors cannot be frightened into ordering convictions by wild talk of 'red menace' and 'bolshivism' nor be led into false conclusions through the testimony of paid witnesses."

Connors predicted that he would be served with the injunction today, "but that doesn't mean that our committee's offices will be closed."

The defense committee secretary said he foresaw wholesale jailing of I. W. W. leaders without jury trial, but that the people of the state would not stand for the injunction.

STORM CAUSES BIG LOSS IN COLORADO

(By United Press Leased Wire)

DENVER, July 17.—Railroad and highway traffic was paralyzed, cities and towns were flooded and residents of river towns remained in readiness to flee for their lives when a storm of cloud burst proportions swept Colorado from Denver south and east for two hours late yesterday afternoon.

Thousands of dollars' damage was done to the Denver and Rio Grande Western and Santa Fe railroad beds between Denver and Pueblo and auto highways were badly washed.

Both Santa Fe and D. and R. G. W. bridges were swept out by the Arkansas river at Portland, Colo., and New Mexico highway bridges were carried away. A five-foot wall of water surged over the town, doing heavy damage to the Portland Cement Works and homes of workmen.

Only one death resulted from the storm. Frank Stevens, a rancher near Florence, was struck by lightning when he attempted to rescue a cow from an overflowing creek.

Drop in Price Of Wheat Decides Race

ST. PAUL, July 17.—Collapse of wheat prices on the Chicago board of trade coming at the psychological moment, was greatly responsible for the "farmer revolt" that elected Magnus Johnson, United States Senator. The campaign between Johnson and Governor J. A. O. Preus was about even when news came last week that wheat had dropped below $1 on the Chicago market.

Quick to grasp his advantage Johnson hammered his "farmer relief" platform all the harder.

"Well, I beat Yake," he roared with his "fog horn voice" today. "I'm United States senator, by jimminy, what you think of that?" Johnson is back on his farm helping cut the hay crop.

SOLON URGES SPEEDY HELP FOR FARMERS

Brookhart Demands Harding Call Extra Session of Congress to Secure Relief.

NEW YORK, July 17.—A demand that President Harding call immediately an extra session of congress to pass a measure for relief of the American farmers was voiced today by Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, who has just returned to this country from a visit to soviet Russia.

Brookhart, who has been studying co-operative marketing and consumption plans abroad, said the American government should buy the farmers' products and sell them.

The election of Magnus Johnson as United States senator for Minnesota, was Brookhart said, a sign to the Republicans that the people of this country now mean to "do things."

MRS. HARDING IS WORN OUT BY JOURNEY

(By United Press Leased Wire)

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 17.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of the president, is suffering from exhaustion but she is not seriously ill, Brigadier General Sawyer declared today.

The president's personal physician said the unusual exertions of Alaskan travel with long days and no nights had tired her. She remained in bed here until shortly before the presidential train left at 5 p. m.

Three heat prostrations were marked up here as President Harding addressed a crowd at the ball park while the temperature was 96 degrees. The president changed his plans several times during the day and, after abandoning the trails trip, decided to see a "clean up" at a placer mine.

CLAIMS $25,000 IS INJURY IN AFFRAY

Claiming that he was attacked and severely beaten by Jess Goodman, proprietor of a local service station, Roy L. Walker, Santa Ana, today brought suit against Goodman in the superior court here for $25,000 damages.

In his complaint, which was filed through Attorneys James L. Allen and James L. Davis, Walker alleges that in the asserted assault, he sustained three fractures of the lower jaw, besides numerous other injuries. The encounter was said to have taken place July 2.

The alleged attack was said to have followed a transaction in automobile tires. Walker maintained that Goodman had not been provoked to attack him. The beating he claimed to have received was declared to have resulted in lasting injuries.

JAPAN SENDS NEW PROTEST TO CHINESE

Civic Organizations Protest Attacks Against Japanese Citizens in China.

HONOLULU, July 17.—The Tokio chamber of commerce and other civic organizations in Japan have taken a definite stand against anti-Japanese agitators in China, according to Tokio dispatches to the Jiji, Japanese language newspaper here.

"Unless the Chinese government and people are quick to check this agitation and prevent an aggravation of the situation," resolutions quoted in the dispatch as passed by these organizations declare, "Japan will be compelled to take proper steps as self-defensive measures."

The responsibility, however, lies entirely with China, the resolutions are quoted as saying.

5 HURT WHEN S. P. FREIGHT HITS AUTO

One man was in the county hospital and four others were at their respective home at Orange today recovering from injuries and shock sustained when the automobile in which they were riding, near the county hospital, on the Garden Grove road, was demolished by a Southern Pacific train yesterday afternoon.

J. W. Fields, 49 years old, 327 East River avenue, Orange, was at the hospital. His sons, C. L. Fields, 21, and Ray Fields, 17, were badly bruised about the body. L. L. Davis and Walter Livesey of Orange also were hurt.

According to the report which the party made to A. T. M. Brown, representative of the Automobile Club of Southern California at Orange, the car approached the tracks from the west. The freight train was going north, but because of the county hospital building, the view at the crossing was obstructed.

When C. L. Fields, the driver, saw that if he attempted to cross the tracks the car would hit "head on," he attempted to steer the automobile along the side of the track until the train could come to a halt. The car was hit and the occupants violently pitched out, the report set forth.

The car was insured by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Editor Ready for New Fight As Pardon Keeps Him From Prison

(By United Press Leased Wire)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 17.—Despite a fifth charge of contempt for which Carl C. Magee must answer before Judge David S. Leahy on July 21 and a $100,000 libel case, pending, the editor of the New Mexico State Tribune smiled pleasantly today.

He had just been told of Governor James F. Hinkle's complete pardon, releasing him from jail and penitentiary sentences aggregating two and a half years, the payment of fines totaling $4,050 against his paper, minor personal fines and court costs.

"It sounds all right," said Magee, when speaking of the unsolicited pardon, "but wait until Judge Leahy sees me again on July 21. I am appreciative, though, to Governor Hinkle. The cost of appeal was too much for me. And now I can say what I need to say about the San Miguel court without fear of further contempt citations."

An attempt by the court to confine Magee immediately to jail should he be convicted on the new charge is foreseen by the editor and his friends. Magee laughingly remarked that the governor might have to wire another pardon.

Governor Hinkle characterized the whole procedure as persecution, not prosecution and said it was a "disgrace and a blot on New Mexico" when he granted the pardon.

Judge Hanna, chief counsel for Magee goes on trial July 20 for direct contempt.

A mass meeting has been called in Santa Fe tonight, by Magee, Hanna and their followers and one is planned for Las Vegas tomorrow.

DE VALERA PLANNING REVOLT

Republican Leader Hiding in Dublin and Organizing Forces

CLAIMS MAJORITY OPPOSE ALLIANCE

Former Sinn Fein Leader Plans to Oust Present Ruling Body

(Copyright, 1923, by United Press)

(Copyright in Canada)

PARIS, July 17.—Breaking a silence of many months, Eamonn De Valera, erstwhile president of the Irish republic, predicts in a statement smuggled here by airplane today that the Irish Free State is doomed and that Ireland will soon be striving again unitedly for independence.

The United Press received from the famous Irish rebel leader a signed statement saying that despite efforts of the Free state troops to capture him, he is in Dublin, gathering the scattered Republican elements of Sinn Fein into a new organization.

Political Battle

De Valera indicates, his new policy is based on political lines, rather than military, for the present.

The Sinn Fein movement is being re-organized, De Valera asserts in his statement. "His policy will probably be an assertion that Ireland's independence cannot be signed away or voted away. Nor can any portion of Ireland's territory be disposed of. All governmental authority in Ireland comes exclusively from the people; and pretended treaty or contract that contravenes these principles will be null and void."

"Paraded with this assertion will be a denial of the right of any foreign authority to rule in Ireland and refusal to recognize or cooperate with that authority or its agents."

Economic Independence

"On the economic side, Sinn Fein will initiate a program of reform and strive to make Ireland economically self-sufficient."

"The full strength of the Republic will not appear in the coming elections," De Valera's statement continues. "The most active workers are either prisoners or prevented from organizing or putting their views before the electorate. They are hampered by every device which the control of the entire press and executive machinery enables their opponents to adopt."

Says State Doomed

"But these conditions cannot last. A state founded as the Free State was founded is doomed. This new union with England will be as ill-starred as its predecessor of 1800."

De Valera maintained that a majority of the Irish people are Republican at heart but are intimidated by the cry that maintenance of the Republic means a war of extermination by England. But the Republicans are not disheartened by their mild defeat, the rebel leader declared.

Hiram Johnson Ends Long European Tour

PARIS, July 17.—Hiram Johnson, Republican senator from California, learned "lots of things" about Europe during his tour, he said today, before he sailed on the Leviathan for New York.

Johnson refused to comment on his discoveries politically or economically.

He said he was planning to attend a dinner arranged by his friends in New York.

He has been in Europe four and a half months.

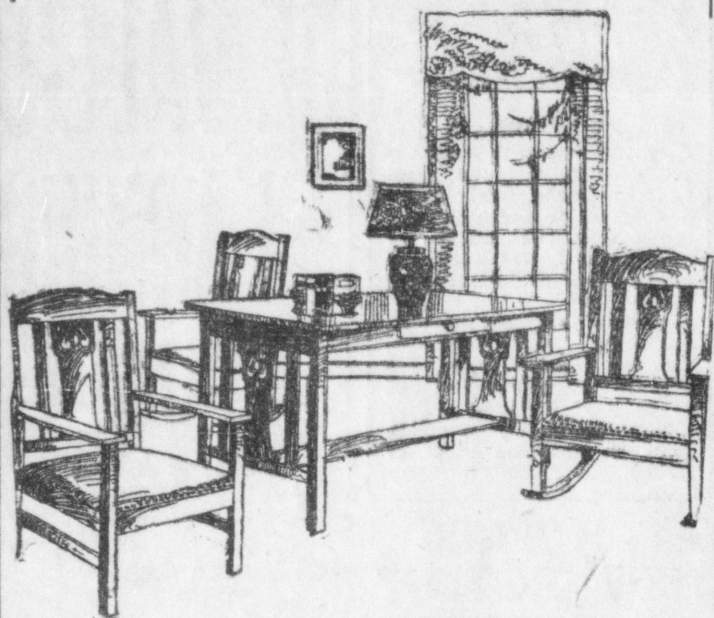

Sand Drifts Isolate City of Alamos Bay

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 17.—Shifting sand drifts threaten today to cut off the little town of Alamos Bay from land communication with the rest of the world. Due to strong south winds recently great quantities of sand have drifted across connecting highways and many automobiles have been stalled. The postal carrier for the town has threatened to discontinue service if the obstructions are not removed.

CALIFORNIA PEP HELD TEXAS' BIG NEED

"If Californians lived in Texas, that state would be 'way ahead of where it is now.'"

It was a loyal Texan, L. A. Heil, superintendent of the national cemetery in Texas, who thus lauded the "native sons," here today.

Hale and hearty, the picture of health, Heil, a civil war veteran, will celebrate his eightieth birthday, July 24, in Santa Ana, at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. E. S. Heil, 435 South Birch street.

"I went to Texas forty seven years ago, an invalid, and look at me today," Heil said, in reminiscing.

"I am probably the last Civil War veteran to be appointed superintendent of a national cemetery. I was appointed in 1917." He explained it was almost impossible for veterans to pass the examination because of its strict physical requirements. The examination is similar to army enlistment tests, he said, adding that cemetery superintendents are under strict regulations.

"I have been active all my life and always keep busy," said this clear-eyed veteran, who for years was a newspaper man in Texas.

"I wouldn't have known Santa Ana," he added enthusiastically. It was thirty-five years ago when he last visited this city.

"Californians are great boasters, but they have something to boast about," he ventured.

Heil was enlisted with Company E, 8th Kansas, veterans, volunteers.

PLAN TO SPAN SAHARA WITH RAILROAD

PARIS, July 17.—Construction of a great military railroad across the Sahara, something like the Arizona desert, only about ten times as wide, is now being studied by experts of the French war office and a project calling for the expenditure of several hundred million dollars will shortly be laid before the chamber of deputies.

The importance of the railroad, apart from its commercial advantages, lies in the fact that south of the Sahara is the French Congo, inhabited by many millions of dusky sons of the jungle, from which the colonial contingent of the French army is for the most part recruited. At present it takes recruits to France for training. With the projected line the time would be reduced to about a week.

After long discussions the consensus of military opinion seems to have decided in favor of a line running down from Colomb Bechar, in Algeria, to the bend of the River Niger, east of Timbuctoo. This decision was arrived at in order to avoid the disadvantages of a railroad running close to Spanish territory on the west coast of Africa or one bordering Italian territory in Tripoli. France wants a railroad all to herself, running entirely through French owned or controlled territory.

Airplanes and Caterpillars
Surveys made by General Estienne and more recently by engineers who accompanied the "caterpillar" automobile expedition across the desert will be utilized. General Estienne is about to undertake another expedition in the district of Kanadsa, in the Hoggar region, where coal mines have just been discovered, to see whether it would be worth while to have the line pass through that part of the Sahara. He will utilize airplanes as well as "caterpillar" cars in his investigations.

A direct line across the Sahara would be about two thousand miles long. In case certain regions which give fair promise of commercial advantages are taken in the road would be five hundred miles or so longer.

The River Niger would be crossed at Tosaye, one hundred and fifty miles east of Timbuctoo, and the southern terminus of the road is to be at Wagadugu, the center of a fertile region inhabited by seven million people. It is hoped to be able to develop these black men into valuable assets in commercial undertakings as well as man power in case of a new war. Just as Bismarck and the military leaders of the German empire forced the engineers engaged on railroad schemes to subordinate business to strategy, the prime movers in this scheme for a Sahara railroad are looking chiefly to its productivity as a means of replenishing the ranks of the army. It will have commercial advantages, too, but they are secondary. (Copyright, 1923, by United Press)

Flying School for Chicago Tots Plan Of Aviation Board

CHICAGO, July 16.—The Air Board of Chicago believes that airplanes will be as common as automobiles in ten years and in August will open a flying school for boys and girls.

The youngsters will be instructed in flying and building model airplanes. Terrence Vincent, director of McKinley park, Chicago, will be in charge. Several playground organizations and a yacht club will co-operate.

"The youngsters will learn fundamental scientific facts about aviation," Vincent said. "This will be thorough work with models. Since most of us will fly to and from our vacations—maybe to and from our work—in ten years, it is well that we so teach these boys and girls who will be the users of airplanes."

Fail to Prove Man Set Out Dog Poison

Failure to prove that W. H.
Rush of Garden Grove set out poison said to have been responsible for the death of dogs belonging to R. V. Cooley and Vernon King of that city, had resulted today in dismissal of charges filed against Rush by Cooley.
The case was tried yesterday by Justice J. B. Cox, Rush being defended by Attorney W. F. Men-ton. Not only did the evidence fail to link Rush with the asserted poisoning, but there was no proof offered that the dogs actually had been poisoned, the court held.

TO BURY AUTO RACE VICTIM LATE TODAY

Following a verdict by a coroner's jury, holding that death was accidental, funeral services were to be held late today at Huntington Beach for Frank Lowry, 40, an oil worker, who died here as a result of injuries sustained on Irvine field, at the foot of South Main street, Sunday afternoon, when a racing car, piloted by Jack Turner of Long Beach, plunged into a crowd of spectators. Shock and other injuries were directly responsible for Lowry's death, according to the coroner's jury, headed by J.
F. Day, as foreman.

"Accounts of eyewitnesses were widely divergent as to what actually happened," Coroner Brown said, "but it was brought out that Turner, driving the car which mowed down the spectators, in some inexplicable manner lost control of his machine.

Collision Avoided
"This car, apparently, attempted to avoid a collision with another entry, and when Turner tried to turn out he shot the car into the pits, striking Lowry and slightly injuring several other spectators. Lowry, according to the testimony, was in the pits, either as a spectator or as an assistant to one of the drivers in the race. His skull was fractured and, at the Community hospital, it was found necessary to amputate one of his legs."

Although the coroner's jury made no recommendation concerning the dirt track, Coroner Brown said it was felt that the fatal termination of Sunday's racing program would preclude future race activities on the improvised track. The races were under the management of "Buck" Jones of Huntington Beach.

Advocates Benefit Fund
Lowry, who came to Huntington Beach a year ago, is survived by a widow and one small son. Burial was made in Huntington Beach.

J. H. Nellis, Seventeenth and Main street, Huntington Beach, today offered this suggestion:
"I was a witness of the accident that snuffed out the life of Frank Lowry and mutilated of ers.
"I would suggest that any surplus funds from the automobile races be turned over to the injured and their dependents."

TO COMPARE PHOTOS TO IDENTIFY SUICIDE

The possibility that the body believed to be that of Victor Larson, found in the rear of a shed near the George Ketscher nursery on East Fourth street late Saturday may be that of a man of that name who formerly lived at Bishop, Calif., was expressed today, when it became known that Mr. and Mrs.
Martin Shields, 1416 North Main street, knew a Victor Larson there twenty years ago.

The newspaper story telling of the finding of a watch in the man's pocket and bearing the name of Victor Larson, attracted the attention of Mrs. Shields. Coroner
Charles D. Brown was notified that Mr. and Mrs. Shields had a picture of the man by that name whom they knew in Bishop.

Photographs of the dead man, taken at the direction of Sheriff Jernigan, were to be compared this afternoon with that in the possession of Mr. and Mrs. Shields.

TO OPERATE WOOLEN MILL HERE SHORTLY

Pointing out that the Atlantic states produce only 4 per cent of the wool, but manufacture 87 per cent of the woolen goods, of the United States, R. L. Stewart of the Santacala Woollen Mills company, today declared that the time is not far distant when the situation will be reversed. He predicted the Pacific coast, where 70 per cent of the nation's wool is produced, would excel as a manufacturing section.

He also pointed out that of the comparatively few woolen mills on the west coast, one is the local plant, located at Washington avenue and Santiago street. The company is preparing to operate the local plant at an early date, according to Stewart.

S. L. Deane, president of the Santacala Woollen Mills company, will have direct supervision of operations.

"There is a great future before many communities on the coast whose business men will co-operate to promote the establishment of woolen mills," Deane said.
"Profits are larger, both from conditions of manufacture and the cost of obtaining raw materials, than is usually the case."

STORM WATERS AGREEMENT TO BE SIGNED

With the city council last night authorizing the chairman of the board and the city clerk to sign an agreement with the directors of the Delhi Drainage district by which the city is given the right to run storm waters into ditches of the district for a period of five years, plans today were under way for the creation of an assessment district to pay the costs of constructing a drain from Edinger street south from the end of Flower street to one of the company's ditches.

Under the terms of the agreement the city may divert storm waters to the district's ditches, one at Main street and Delhi road, one south of the Havens Seed company and a third at Bristol and Edinger streets.

As an incident of the discussion Andrew Cook stated that a petition is out for the paving of South Main full width to Delhi road. Cook said presentation of the petition had been held up pending receipt of information as to whether the city would bear a portion of the extra expense involved in the construction of a curb of a height necessary to carry the storm water that would accumulate on the street. The proposed paving program is outside the city limits.

Up to District. The council pointed out to Cook that such expense would have to be borne by a district and not by the city.

The Robertson Electric company was given permission to erect an electric sign for the Green-Marshall Paint company at 608 North Main street. An application for permission to hang a sign for the Chandler Music company at 426-28 West Fourth was referred to Killen and McPhee.

Recommendation of the city health officer that the fish peddlers' license of Frank O'Campo be revoked because of the asserted fact that he does not keep his premises at 912 Stanford street in a sanitary condition was referred to McPhee for investigation and warning to O'Campo that he must keep his place sanitary.

I. L. Nicholson was denied permission to operate a repair garage at 1911 Spurgeon street.

Store Permit Granted. L. H. Van Ness was given permit to erect a building at 1101 Cypress avenue for use as a grocery store.

Petition for gravel and oil improvement on Camille street, Main to Sycamore street, was granted on condition that property owners deposit with the street superintendent the estimated cost of oil and gravel.

W. B. Thompson, 114 North Main street, was the only bidder for the tool house at Birch park. His offer of $7.50 was refused.

Action on an application of M. A. Miller for permission to operate a used car market at 305 North Broadway continued, following report by McPhee that Miller had established the market without waiting for issuance of a permit. McPhee pointed out that with sawdust covering the yard, the market was a fire hazard.

Killen and Neff were appointed a committee to make a formal offer to Ellis Brothers of $500 an acre for forty acres of land adjoining the treatment plant. The brothers demand $600 an acre. If the offer is refused, the committee is under instruction to authorize City Attorney Z. B. West Jr. to begin condemnation proceedings.

Raps Cement Work. Following declarations by William G. Knox, city engineer, that much inferior work is being done in the city in the construction of cement walks and curbs, he was instructed to present to the council next Monday evening an ordinance requiring contractors in future to use segregated materials.

Knox suggested that the city establish a fee for the issuance of permits for such work and also for issuing house numbers. He will present data at the next session of the board.

Adoption of a resolution declaring that public necessity required the opening and widening of the south end of Broadway park avenue in the North Broadway park subdivision prepared the way for filing condemnation proceedings against M. Nisson for property needed to complete the opening of the avenue north from Santa Clara avenue.

On suggestion of Neff, master plumbers and journeyman plumbers were asked to appoint a committee from each organization to go over the proposed plumbing ordinance and submit suggestions to the council, if changes in the ordinance are deemed advisable.

Adopt Water Main Law. The board adopted the new ordinance regulating the installation of water mains in new subdivisions.

Hearing was continued two weeks on the protest of property owners against maintenance costs for proposed ornamental lighting systems on West Fifth and West Fourth streets being assessed against the property abutting the streets.

A deed was accepted from D. W. Sturgeon conveying title to a lot on West Third street for the new fire hall to be erected by the city. A site for the east side station has not been purchased.

City Electrical W. O. Packard was directed to enforce the electric sign ordinance against Foster and Kline, which firm was declared to have installed a sign on East Third street which is lighted at night by "goose-necks" extending over the center of the sidewalk.

POPCORN WAGON WHISTLES BANNED AS NUISANCE. PORTLAND, Ore., July 17.—In the future proprietors of popcorn wagons will have to depend on the fragrance of their wares to draw trade. The city council has received complaints that the little steam whistles attached to the wagons were annoying, and they have been ordered removed.

Awnings Must Be Of Right Height Firms Are Told

Trouble is brewing for business men who have awnings in front of their places of business that are not of regulation height, it became known today following a meeting of the city council last night, at which it was reported that the awnings in front of several places of business on North Main street were too low.

The city attorney was directed to warn four firms there that they must raise their awnings.

W. S. Decker, building inspector, pointed out that a city ordinance establishes eight feet from the walk as the proper height for awning frames and seven feet for curtains.

It was declared that the frames of some of the awnings complained of were less than six and a half feet above the sidewalk.

WILL PROBE JOINT SEWER LINE FUNDS

Investigation of the joint outfall sewer, the money expended and a report on the balance in the outfall sewer fund was detailed by the city council last night as one of the first duties of the city planning commission, appointed a week ago, and scheduled to organize tonight.

George McPhee, a member of the council, following a request by Engineer W. G. Knox that the council make an inspection of the work that certain sections might be accepted, declared his belief that the planning commission also should make the investigation.

It was agreed that the council should make its investigation this afternoon and that by the commission at an early date.

McPhee balked at the suggestion that the council, in its examination, "skin" through the sewer for four and a half miles. He consented to go only when he was assured he would not be expected to drop into manholes or go through the sewer line.

DEFER LETTING ENGINE, HOSE CONTRACTS

With the city council last night deadlocking in the matter of awarding contracts for supplying the city with a new fire pump engine and 5000 feet of fire hose, settlement of the issue today awaited the return of Councilman Charles H. Chapman, who was called to Kansas City last week by the illness of a brother-in-law. Awarding of the contract was deferred to August 6, by which time it is expected the absent councilman will be present.

With Claude Killen, fire commissioner, and John Luxembourg, fire chief, recommending the purchase of a Seagraves pump engine, the same as the pump engine now in use here, the council deadlocked when Killen and Neff voted favorably on the recommendation and George McPhee and Mayor John W. Tubbs voted in the negative.

Tell Fine Points. The vote was not taken until after representatives of each of the four bidding companies had been given ten minutes in which to set forth the fine points of their machines.

Killen presented telegrams he had received from fire chiefs in a number of cities giving the Seagraves equipment the highest recommendation.

Passing from the subject of the award for the fire apparatus, the matter of awarding a contract for supplying the hose produced a tilt between Killen and Tubbs.

Sees Stand as Slap. Killen took the position that failure of the two opposing councilmen to ratify the recommendation of the fire commissioner and the fire chief for the purchase of the Seagraves fire engine was indicative of a lack of confidence in the commissioner and the department.

Because of this attitude of his colleagues, Killen said that award of the hose contract should be passed over also until Chapman returns.

He made such a motion and it prevailed.

Tubbs pointed out to Killen that the award of a contract involving the amount of the purchase price of a fire engine was something in which all of the councilmen were concerned. Tubbs said he wanted more time in which to investigate the fire apparatus.

American Cities More Businesslike Research Man Says

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The value of scientific business methods and practices in municipal government is growing in importance in American cities, says William H. Nanry, director of the San Francisco Bureau of Governmental Research, after a study tour of the larger metropolitan centers of the East and Middle West.

During his travels Nanry attended the annual convention of municipal research bureaus in Minneapolis.

At the request of L. S. Leavy, the newly appointed purchasing officer of the city, Nanry visited some of the more important cities where municipal purchase procedure has been in effect for some time. In Detroit, Cleveland, agent for San Francisco, Nanry Dayton, Akron, Toledo, Philadel-

REBUILDING OF FOURTH ST. LINE URGED

Construction of a ten-story building on the northeast corner of Fourth and Bush streets will necessitate rebuilding of a main sewer line on the north side of Fourth street between French and Main streets, Walter Wray, sewer superintendent, told the city council at its meeting last night. He estimated the cost of a change in the sewer at approximately $2500.

The main line now runs midway between fourth and fifth streets from Main to French streets, it was brought out. At the Grand Opera house, on the corner on which it is proposed to erect the new ten-story building, the sewer line follows the outside lines of the basement, according to Wray, creating a condition that in time may cause a great deal of trouble.

Wray pointed out that buildings have been erected over the main sewer in most instances, and, further, that it would be impossible to maintain the line if the new building is erected.

He recommended that a new line be laid on the north side of Fourth street, between French and Main streets.

A similar situation exists between Ross street and Main street, Wray declares, adding that it would be only a matter of time when the line would have to be changed from the middle of the block to the north side of Fourth street. The latter change, he estimated, would cost $4000. The present line, he said, runs through the basements at the New Rossmore hotel and the Rankin Dry Goods store.

Philadelphia and Denver he found that centralized purchasing of city supplies has proved its worth in greatly increased efficiency and economy, Nanry says.

"In practically every instance I found that a knowledge and understanding of the recently adopted purchasing ordinance here prevailed," said Nanry. "All declared that in this ordinance San Francisco has a splendid basis for accomplishment. In Detroit, Philadelphia and Dayton I found that purchasing procedure has been developed to a very high point."

The results of Nanry's findings on city purchasing procedure will be incorporated in a report to Leavy.

Uniquely Delightful Was Musicales at St. Ann's Inn

Offering a rare treat to a group of music loving friends, the beautiful voice of Kathryn Barnard of New York City was heard last night in a delightfully arranged musicale at St. Ann's Inn, where some seventy-five guests responded to invitations issued by Mrs. Barnard and her aunt, Mrs. Nina Staples of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Barnard is spending a few weeks as the guest of her parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Warner and Miss Marjorie Warner of Willets street and conceived the idea of presenting the recital at the Inn that her mother might hear her singing in surroundings other than her home.

Assisting her on the program were Miss Ruth Armstrong, pianist, Mrs. Staples, cellist, Miss Lalla Fagge, violinist, and Mrs. Violet Nedderson, pianist.

With Miss Armstrong at the piano, Mrs. Barnard opened the program with a beautiful group in which her beautiful soprano voice filled the lobby of the Inn with golden rivers of melody. The group included Walter Kramer's "The Faltering Dusk"; "Pierrot" by Wintter Watts; "In the Yellow Dusk" by Edward Horsman and "The Birthday" by Woodman.

A group of instrumental numbers followed in which Debussy's "Romance," "By the Brook" (de Bois-deffre) and "The Golden Wedding" were delightfully interpreted by Miss Armstrong. Miss Fagge and Mrs. Staples.

Mrs. Barnard then sang "Clair de Lune," (Saul) "Celle que je préfère" (Fauré); "Ruhe meine Seele" (Richard Strauss) and "Zigeunerlied," also by Strauss, after which Mrs. Nedderson, a comparative newcomer to the city's musical circles and connected with the Sherwood School of Music, gave a piano group opening with a McDowell sonata and, after several beautiful selections, closing with the decidedly impressionistic Kindergarten Suite of Gossens, that new composer of exotic music.

The recital was brought to a close by a song group with violin obligato when Mrs. Barnard sang an arrangement of Rachmaninoff's "Night," followed by a unique interpretation of Eckert's "Swiss Echo Song," when Miss Marjorie Warner, stationed at the opposite side of the lobby, responded with a very striking and realistic "echo."

Following the delightful congratulations heaped upon all the members producing such a happily conceived and executed program, some thirty-five of the guests remained for a little supper dance with a pleasantly informal program of music to offer lure to dancing feet.

Mrs. Barnard plans to remain for about two weeks longer in Santa Ana and are returning to her New York home.

Honeymooners Return For Brief Visit

After a brief visit with friends in Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene G. Hoff had today returned to Pasadena where they are spending part of their honeymoon pleasantly located at 109 Ford Place.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoff are being elaborately feted by their many friends in that vicinity who were keenly interested in the pretty Mission Inn wedding of Tuesday, July 3, when Miss Sarah A. Gardner of this city and Victorville became the bride of Mr. Hoff.

The honeymooners were to be guests of honor tonight at a Brookside Park tea to be presented by Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Hall while other affairs of recent date arranged in their honor have been presented by Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Hall, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Gould, Alhambra, and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. T. Gould of 5115 Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles. A. L. T. Gould, well known in this city, is assistant superintendent of the Los Angeles schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoff plan to remain in and near Pasadena for several weeks and are returning to this city where they will be at home to their friends at 412 Washington avenue.

To Sing at Long Beach For Legionnaires

Hazel Putney Humphreys will go to Long Beach tonight at the request of the American Legion there, to give a group of songs at the county reception to be staged in the Legion rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Ora Keck, of Long Beach will accompany the soloist as she gives her group, which will include, "Little Mother of Mine," (Burley) and "What's in the Air Today" (Robert Eden) in addition to other numbers not yet selected by the soloist.

Mrs. Humphreys, a comparatively recent acquisition to the city's group of vocalists, formerly made her home at Long Beach where she is greatly in demand in musical circles, the boys of the American Legion especially expressing a very proprietary feeling in her lovely voice.

Wedding Announced In Charming Manner After Barnard Recital

The strains of Lohengrin's wedding march suddenly breaking into the music of the supper dance which followed the Katharine Barnard recital at St. Ann's Inn last night, announced a wedding of great interest to Santa Ana people.

Mrs. Lucy Marie Stevens and Ivan Morton Dales were both present at the recital and supper dance but until the announcement was made no one suspected that they were married.

Just before going to the Inn, Mr. and Mrs. Dales were married at the Spurgeon Memorial church by the Rev. Moffett Rhodes and were attended only by Mrs. Violet Nedderson and Newton Peterson.

Mrs. Nedderson occupied a prominent part of the program at the recital and is an old friend of both the principals as is Mr. Peterson.

Mrs. Stevens had made her home in this city for several years.

Mr. Dales was formerly a resident of Canada where he was connected with prominent publicity positions in Chicago and later in Detroit. His associations in Orange county have been made through his handling of the publicity for the Orange county bankers at the time of the special edition of the Financial Insurance News at the time of the California Bankers' convention at the Hotel Virginia in Long Beach in the spring. He expects to go into business here and he and Mrs. Dales will make their home in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Dales have been acquainted for years and their marriage, although a surprise to their friends is the culmination of a long friendship and romance.

Mr. and Mrs. Dales had only a few of their close friends as guests at the simple nuptial ceremony, the group including Miss E. Stanghorn, Mrs. Violet Nedderson, Mrs. Frank Beale-Hunter of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Trago, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Joyner, the Rev. Moffett Rhodes and Mrs. Rhodes, Dr. John C. Campbell, Newell Peterson and De Witt Van Horn of Long Beach.

Local Violinist Wins New Laurels

Santa Ana's place in the musical affairs of the state received further recognition at the time of the State Music Teachers' convention held in San Jose early in July when Ollimae Enlow Mattheis, prominent violinist of this city and official representative of the Orange County Music Teachers' association, appeared on the most ambitious evening program of the convention in company with three other artists of national reputation, a pianist, a tenor vocalist and a contralto.

Mrs. Matthews was received with delight by the audience and of her work, the San Jose Mercury-Herald declared: "Mrs. Matthews interpreted 'Albion's Le Rossignol' with its lovely bird song in a truly artistic manner and her bowing was superb. After the insistent applause she responded with an encore, 'Sweet Lavender,' a dainty bit charmingly rendered."

Miss Mabel Woodworth of Garden Grove who is in Berkeley for the summer, doing special work in harmony and composition under Carolyn Alechin, joined Mrs. Matthews at San Jose and played her accompaniments at the recital which was presented at the auditorium of the State Teachers' college. Miss Woodworth is treasurer of the Orange county association.

Following the convention, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. E. O. Enlow and Miss Estelle Nisson continued their trip to San Francisco and returned to this city only recently.

To Exhibit Pictures In Los Angeles

Admirers of the work of Miss Evelyn Nunn, prominent artist of this city, will be delighted to learn that an exhibit of her pictures will be presented at the Cannell and Chaffin galleries at 720 West 5th street, Los Angeles, during the last two weeks of September.

Miss Nunn, who returned last spring from a several years' stay in the Orient during which she had the advantage of work under the leading masters of Japan, has some remarkable canvases to show as a result of her sojourn abroad. A visit to the famous Los Angeles galleries recently resulted in a request from Mr. Cannell to exhibit some of her work and Miss Nunn showed him a few sketches of scenes in the Orient.

Declaring them to be uniquely beautiful and different from anything exhibited in his galleries, Mr. Cannell immediately offered the first open date to the Santa Ana artist, specifying that the display of pictures be made up of Oriental studies, including those of China, Japan, Egypt and Palestine all of which were visited during Miss Nunn's travels.

Since her return to this city, the artist has kept her pictures on exhibition at a quaintly artistic little studio at her home, 802 North Ross street, where on certain afternoons each week, she welcomes all those interested in her work. Miss Nunn has also been greatly in demand by various organizations as speaker on women and life of the Orient.

Figure this: If you spend all day trying to sell something, and sell it, it has cost you to make the sale whatever your time for the day is worth. The same sale could be made without waste of time. How? By a classified advertisement in The Register.

Former Iowa Friends Are Entertained at Week-End Party

Pleasantly reminiscent of social affairs back in Iowa was a delightful week-end party where nineteen guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. O. B. Alderman of 202 East First street.

Gayeties opened auspiciously Saturday evening when Mrs. Alderman presided at a charmingly appointed dinner at her home followed by a happy evening's chat of old times. Sunday the entire party motored to Laguna where the charms of "Our Village" were fittingly brought forth by her loyal admirers and where a beach dinner and water sports offered a merry afternoon.

Among Mrs. Alderman's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boardman and two children who have just arrived from Nevada, Iowa, and who formed the motif for the delightful gathering; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Burch of Portland, Oregon, with their three children; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Ashford and son John; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bengal and son Max all of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Boardman and two children of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Boardman sr. are already staunch California admirers and express themselves as being particularly delighted with Santa Ana and the surrounding country. "Iowa is an excellent place to earn money," Mrs. Boardman declares laughingly, "but Santa Ana would be my choice of a place to spend it."

Vancouver Folk Arrive For Extended Stay

Many friends are welcoming the arrival of Mrs. J. W. Van Dusen and Miss Phae Van Dusen of Vancouver, who are guests of the former sister-in-law, Mrs. C. G. Perry, 412 West Washington street, and renewing friendships made upon the occasion of former visits here.

Mr. Van Dusen, a member of a large British Columbia lumber exporting firm with offices all over the world, will join his wife and daughter the latter part of July and will remain for a month in Southern California. Miss Phae Van Dusen will be welcomed by the younger set as she spent five months here while her parents were in South America and the Orient. During their South American trip, Mr. and Mrs. Van Dusen had the pleasure of greeting Miss Hester Robinson, a former Santa Ana girl.

Disclosed to Friends Is Date of Wedding

Many friends were keenly interested in the announcement of the wedding date chosen by Miss Mildred Taylor and Mark Lafayette Landrum whose betrothal was disclosed at a charming affair a few weeks ago and who have chosen Wednesday, the first day of August as their nuptial date.

Miss Taylor is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Taylor of 406 South Birch street and the wedding for which invitations were issued a few days ago, will be at her girlhood home, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

This will be the second bridal event of the season in the Taylor family as the son of the bride, John William Taylor Jr., was wedded in June to Miss Margaret Putnam of Redlands. The announcement of the betrothal of his sister and Mr. Landrum was made at the time that Miss Mildred Taylor and Miss Laura Taylor introduced the June bride to their circle of friends at a charmingly planned afternoon tea.

Will Greet Members Of Pen Sisterhood At Beach Cottage

Keen anticipations of an unusually interesting affair were today being discussed by a little group of writer folk who are to be guests of Alice Fessenden Peterson, (Mrs. B. D. Peterson, 1009 Bush street) at her Laguna Beach summer home Friday, July 20.

Mrs. Peterson, achieving a wide fame for her remarkable nature stories having their locale in the South American jungles, is an active member of the Southern California Woman's Press Club meeting at stated intervals in Los Angeles.

Her guests Friday will comprise the members of the club's short story section which has accomplished a year of splendid work under the direction of Georgina S. Townsend of Los Angeles. While the club activities are lapsed during the summer months, the short story section is continuing a series of informal meetings of which the Laguna Beach affair will serve as a fair sample.

The Peterson cottage, from its position on the bluff, commands a remarkable view of the ocean and is a beauty spot in itself with its charmingly landscaped gardens. The guests will enjoy luncheon in the pergola with its swaying vines, rustic benches and lily fringed pools with their beautiful gold fish.

Explains Plan of Operation of Joint Stock Land Bond System
For several months there has been more or less of a misunderstanding among financial experts as to the value of the Joint Stock Land Bank Bonds. Much has been written on the question but a doubt still exists in the minds of many regarding the question. The public is now beginning to take an interest in the matter and Mr. Edw. McWilliams, head of the bond department, of the First National bank, has prepared a series of articles on the question and they are published hereafter for the benefit of Register readers.

(a) The land value improves.
(b) The debt decreases.
(c) Payments are reloaned, thereby increasing the equity in the original loan.

This is illustrated by a simple example. A farm valued at $20,000 is mortgaged for $10,000, thereby providing for an issue of $10,000 Joint Stock Land Bank Bonds. By payments on the principal the mortgage is reduced to $7,500 but the original $20,000 farm continues as security. The $2,500 that have been paid on the mortgage are reloaned on a farm valued at $50,000. The net results of this transaction are farms valued at $25,000, carrying mortgages of $10,000, providing for $10,000 Joint Stock Land Bank Bonds. The transaction started with a farm value of twice the bonds. As the transaction stands at a little later date, farm values are 2 1/2 times the bonds.

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

Market Closes Higher After Early Reaction and Dull Movement
NEW YORK, July 17.—After an early reaction which found a number of the leaders a point or more under Monday's close, stocks on the stock exchange today held and regained most of their losses. Subsequently dullness set in for several hours with a firm undertone evident.

In the late afternoon trading became more active and stocks were stronger with some industrials and rails at higher levels than the previous close.

The market tactics were similar to those of recent sessions. Unsettled reparations situation and the reaction in the wheat market induced the selling with stocks well on the decline.

Bears were not willing to follow up their advantage, leaving the unmistakable impression that the stock market had been entirely liquidated.

Wheat rallied as did sterling after the early weakness.

The market closed higher.

CLAIMS OIL TO BRING ABOUT ALASKA RUSH

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Oil—magic builder of modern empires—many soon send the sons of those hardy Argonauts, who took the gold trail of '98, stampeded to Alaska.

President Harding, now among the scenes of the gold rush, tales of which thrilled him as a country editor, may be on the ground to witness the first big strike of oil in paying quantities.

Alaskan oil fields, so lately shunned, barren wastes, now teem with life and feverish activity. Geological Survey officials told the United States. News of gushers, rivaling those of Texas and Oklahoma oil fields, is expected any day.

The Standard Oil company and other large independent concerns are drilling wells in regions believed by their experts to contain gigantic oil pools. More than 750 oil companies and individuals have drilling permits in Alaskan fields. They are driving their men to the utmost while good weather prevails.

Expect Mad Stampede
Once oil in quantities is struck, officials predict a mad stampede to reach and stake claims in the new El Dorado. Owing to the hazardous sea route that must be followed to reach the Cold Bay fields, on the Alaskan peninsula, one of the richest oil regions, they said the spectacular Klondike rush over frozen trails would pale into insignificance for reckless disregard for human life.

Officials foresee a scramble for passage from Seattle. Old vessels driven beyond their speed in the wild race to Alaska would run the risk of bursting boilers. And then the battle for leaky, unseaworthy craft at any price to reach Cold Bay from Kodiak, the nearest safe harbor, 100 miles across the open sea.

Oil may do for the little Aleut village of Kanatuk, with a winter population of 30 to 40 natives, what gold did for Dawson, Circle City and Nome—make it a city overnight. It may do even more.

It may give civilization an impetus in the conquering of Alaska.

Certain Alaska Has Oil
So certain are geological survey officials that Alaska holds a great oil reservoir that they have already issued a warning to investors to be cautious in plunging on wildcat oil stock, before investigating the character of the company. They say the danger of the stock swindler, who seizes upon all new fields as a means of mulcting the public of millions of dollars by the same methods used by scores of alleged stock jobbers recently indicted in New York and Texas.

Although oil was one of the first minerals found in Alaska, difficulties of development delayed at exploitation until the signing of the oil-leasing law of 1920. That was a signal for a stampede. Over 3,000,000 acres of oil lands are now under lease.

Horses know at once when they have a nervous rider.

GRAIN PRICES JUMP ON CHICAGO MARKET

Increase Demand for Wheat and Speculative Buying Brings Gain
(By United Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, July 17.—Grain prices closed higher in the Chicago board of trade today. Wheat prices responded to broader demand and buying by speculators and advanced in the latter part of the session. Crop news was uniformly favorable.

Corn was the market leader, carrying both wheat and oats to higher values. Reports of hot dry weather over the southwestern section of the belt with scattered advices of damage gave the trade a strong bullish tone in addition to the natural strength inspired by light stocks and light movement of the old crop.

Stage and Screen

Madge Bellamy in "The Soul of the Beast," at the Princess today and tomorrow.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS

YOST—Vaudeville and "Backbone," with Edith Roberts.

WEST END—"The Woman With Four Faces," with Betty Compson and Richard Dix.

PRINCESS—"The Soul of the Beast," with Madge Bellamy.

"BACKBONE" AT YOST AGAIN TONIGHT

Presentation of "Backbone," the Distinctive Pictures special feature which is to be at the Yost theater tonight is an event of triple significance. It is the first of the 1923 program of twelve big pictures to be made by the Distinctive Corporation, now famous for the merit of its output; it marks the screen debut of Alfred Lunt, celebrated young actor of the legitimate stage; and it is the first of the Distinctive product to be distributed by the Goldwyn Corporation by the terms of a new arrangement between these two dominant companies.

"Backbone" is the type of picture for which there is an ever-growing demand—straight-from-the-shoulder drama, unspiced by false touches, powerful in story, intelligently directed and entertaining throughout. It is a fine vehicle for the screen debut of Lunt, who made himself famous overnight for his part in the Booth Tarkington comedy, "Clarence," and who combines ability to act with a tremendous amount of good looks.

YOST BEGINS FOUR DAYS OF "THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST"

"The Girl of the Golden West" is one of the two or three stories of the West's early history and life which have served as the basis of all other Western plays of stage or screen. "The Girl of the Golden West" is a story of a girl, the idol of a rough mining camp, who found herself in love with a bandit, of a sheriff who was a gambler and recognized a gambler's laws and of a bandit who was started on the straight road by the faith of the girl he sought to make his victim. There are but two important pistol shots fired in the picture. There are no mining scenes, no made-up cowboys. There is no padding. There is no cheap melodrama. Everything you see on the screen is real, honest meat.

So popular was "The Girl of the Golden West" that after David Belasco, dean of all stage producers, built the dramatic stage hit, he wrote a book from his script and many editions were necessary to supply the world-wide demand for it. Also that the story became so popular that Puccini, Italian composer, wrote a grand opera around the theme and offered it as one of the first American operatic aris.

"A FOOL THERE WAS" TOMORROW AT TEMPLE

Men since the dawn of history have counted the world well lost for a woman's smile. Lewis Stone is the dupe and Estelle Taylor a modern Circe in "A Fool There Was," a new special which opens at the Temple theatre tomorrow. Emmett J. Flynn is credited with the direction.

On a journey to Russia, where he is to fill war contracts, a financier encounters a siren, who has duped many of his associates. The magnate has sneered openly at the weaklings; he, in turn, forgets position, family, honor and friends, and the finale—it is as inexorable and ghastly as one of Poe's hair-curling phantasies.

Lewis Stone is at ease in a sphere of metropolitan luxury; he is an aristocrat to the core, even in his "cups" never oversteps the bounds of gentility. His work in a mirror-smashing episode is conceived with the subtle finesse and lingers in the memory after one has left the theatre.

Estelle Taylor, as the temptress, evinces intelligence; she is the modern "vamp" who "lures men's souls to the shores of hell with a lift of her wanton eyes." Miss Taylor's subdued character is close to real life.

In the Big Leagues

Five hits, a pass, an error and a wild pitch, gave the Robins seven runs in the third inning and an 8 to 4 victory over the Pirates.

McLellan's error behind the wild pitching of Blankenship gave the Athletics a 4 to 3 win from the White Sox.

Seven runs were scored on a flock of hits off Glasner in the second inning and the Cards beat the Phils 13 to 7.

ADVERTISING TO BE EXPLAINED AT MEETING

"People have come to realize there is a definite place in the community for an advertising club," Glenn A. Moore, advertising manager of Hill and Son, president of the newly organized Advertising Club of Santa Ana, said today. "And we are getting new members every day."

Declaring the club expects to have a big crowd at its meeting tomorrow night at St. Ann's Inn, at 6:30 p. m., Moore added:

"We have invited everyone who is interested to attend the meeting and share with us the pleasure and benefit of hearing such men as Don Francisco, T. M. R. Keane and Burt Butterworth."

"At first there seemed to be a slight feeling that our club might encroach on the functions of the M. and M. or some other organizations. That, however, is a thing of the past.

"Fred Newcomb Jr., president of the M. and M., is a member of our board of directors, and P. S. Lucas, the secretary, a member of our club. Robert Conway, president of the Orange County Credit association also is a member of the club and has expressed approval of it and its work."

Gives Aim of Club

In outlining the work of an advertising club, Moore said the aim was to promote truth in advertising; to educate its members and the public in modern business methods; to eliminate fraud in advertising; and to advance Santa Ana and Orange county whenever possible.

"Those who really desire to learn more about the function of the club cannot do better than to attend the meeting tomorrow evening," he continued. "I feel sure that some of our speakers can tell more about it than I am able to."

"Don Francisco, president-elect of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs of the World, will speak on the relationship of these two organizations to other clubs on the coast."

Other Speakers Capable

"T. M. R. Keane, president of the P. C. A. C. A. and director of advertising of Culbertson's, of Spokane, Wash., will speak on 'Local Problems in Advertising and What a Local Club Can Do to Solve Them.'

"Burt Butterworth, vice-president of the P. C. A. C. A. and past president of the Los Angeles Advertising club, will give a talk on 'Advertising.' Butterworth is a very good speaker and no doubt has gathered some very interesting facts from his recent trip up and down the coast, where he has had an opportunity to study local conditions in business."

"The directors of the Advertising Club of Santa Ana request that those who wish to attend call Jack Horsley of the Santa Ana Printing company, by phone, and tell him of their intention, so that sufficient reservations may be made for all."

ASK 100 SEATS FOR L. A.-HARDING MEET

How many tickets Santa Ana will be allowed for the Los Angeles-Harding meeting is still unknown, William F. Menton, chairman of the Orange county Republican committee, said today.

Menton applied to the Los Angeles committee for 100 tickets and as soon as he receives an answer will make announcement, in the newspapers, regarding the number of seats available and the plan for their distribution, he said.

"I will talk over the plan for distributing the tickets with the entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce," Menton declared. He asked that the tickets be sent him, for distribution.

S. A. Country Club Advantages Told As Drive Gets Under Way

With six committees actively engaged in the campaign to "sell" the Santa Ana Country club idea to residents of this city and vicinity, excellent progress was being made here today in the drive to raise funds for the new clubhouse and golf course planned for Newport boulevard, midway between this city and the beach, according to chairmen of the respective committees.

In pointing out the advantages of a modern country club and golf course, W. A. Huff, president of the Farmers and Merchants bank and a resident of Santa Ana for many years, said:

"The club, through the holding company, owns 144 acres of land which, in the course of time, will prove to be one of the most desirable investments of the kind in this section of the state. This land, held at $497.50 per acre, is bound to increase in value as Santa Ana, rapidly growing, expands toward the sea."

Feasibility Compared
"After a thorough investigation," Huff continued, "the real estate committee and the holding company are of the opinion that similar or equally desirable land, with water, and within a radius of ten miles of Santa Ana, cannot be purchased under $750 per acre, and we doubt if it can be had at this price."

"The question is asked, 'Are golf club memberships desirable?' Let us see what other club memberships are worth."

"The San Gabriel Golf club membership has advanced from $400 in three years, to $750. The Flintridge club membership advanced from $250 to $750. The Midwick club advanced from $500, three years ago, to $1100. The Wilshire club membership advanced from $400 to $1000. The Los Angeles Country club membership advanced from $500 to $2,000, and they have a waiting list. Other clubs have shown like advances."

The following committees were in the field today:

Committee No. 1, Newport, Balboa and Huntington Beach: Lew H. Wallace, chairman; Otto Haan, Robert Simon, L. G. Swales and F. L. Purinton.

Committee No. 2, Anaheim and Santa Ana: Guy Gilbert, chairman; George Dunton, Mark Lacey, G. J. Daley and J. S. Warner.

Committee No. 3, Orange and Santa Ana: A. S. Ralph, chairman; Charles G. Twist, John L. Wheeler, J. W. Tubbs and J. K. Hermon.

Committee No. 4, Santa Ana, Orange, and Tustin: D. Eymann Huff, chairman; C. E. Parker, Walter Vandermast, O. H. Barr, E. S. Gilbert and George B. Shattuck.

Committee No. 5, Santa Ana, and all physicians, dentists, druggists and undertakers: Dr. P. R. Reynolds, chairman; Dr. J. I. Clark, Charles S. Kendall, Arthur Lyons and J. Fred Parsons.

Committee No. 6, general: E. T. Mateer, chairman; H. B. Van Dien, J. A. Livesey Jr.; J. C. Metzger, Harry M. Smith and W. A. Huff.

LEAD PRODUCTION IN STATE ON INCREASE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—The interior department announced today that, according to information reaching the San Francisco office of the geological survey, mining in California during the first half of 1923 was greatly handicapped by lack of efficient labor and by a very large labor turnover. Considerable development and prospecting work was done during the first six months of the year in different parts of the state, particularly in the gold districts.

Most of the larger gold mines are operating about as they were in 1922, and a few new gold producers have started production, it was reported. The silver mines have been worked to their full capacity thus far in 1923, but some curtailment of activity in silver mining took place in June. With the resumption of open-market prices for silver, it may be expected that the production of that metal will be further reduced, the report added. The Engels and Walker mines have been operating at full capacity, and steps have been taken to increase the output at both properties. It is reported that the copper mines in Shasta county, and the Calaveras Copper company may reopen in the near future.

Practically all the lead produced in California is obtained from properties in the southern part of the state, and, though some of these properties have been producing, others have been equipping or building mills and had not begun production during the first half of the year. No zinc mines are in operation.

The output of both gold and silver during the first half of 1923 did not come up to that during the corresponding period in 1922, but the increase in production by the copper and lead mines will probably offset the decrease of silver from the silver mines, so that the output for 1923 will probably about equal that for 1922, which was valued at $21,625,600, the information disclosed.

Canadian Fruit Crop Prospects Are Good

OTTAWA, Canada, July 16.—A summary of the fruit prospects of the Dominion, issued by the bureau of statistics, shows an increased production of apples in British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec amounting to approximately 15 per cent to 25 per cent. Ontario and British Columbia report heavy peach crops. Plums and prunes will equal the 1922 crop. Raspberries are reported as being light, while the production of strawberries will be in excess of 1922. It is too early to estimate the apple crop of New Brunswick, but Nova Scotia reports that blossoms indicate full crop.

SAYS BLONDE FACES EXTINCTION IN U. S.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The blonde, with the "large, baby-blue eyes," is going the way of the American buffalo, Dr. Harry C. Paul, optometrist, declared today.

Soon she will be a rarity in the United States, if she does not wear glasses that screen out the destructive ultra-violet and infra-red rays of sunlight, he said.

"It's because of the intense light in this latitude. Pigment protects the retina by screening out destructive light rays, and the blonde, with not enough pigment for our intense light, suffers accordingly."

The blonde, Dr. Paul pointed out, comes from northern Europe, where the light is much softer than in this country. The brunettes hailed originally from the southern climes, and in the United States she has a distinct advantage over her fair-haired sister.

"The only thing that the blue-eyed baby-doll can do is wear glasses," Dr. Paul continued. "She can wear smoked glasses or a special glass invented by Sir William Crookes, inventor of the X-ray."

"But can you imagine a blue-eyed flapper trying to practice her wiles through smoked glasses?"

Scientists recommend a daily half dozen to aid blondes. They are:

Roll your eyes.
Look up from your work frequently.
Give your eyes plenty of fresh air.
Look at green grass, flowers and he blue sky.
Sit up straight.
Bathe the eyes in cold water when tired.

CALIFORNIAN IN RUSSIA SEES REVIVAL

MOSCOW, July 17.—"You have the factories, the former managers and their employees. You have all the raw material right at hand. You have a keen demand for the products. All that is lacking to make Kiev the busy place it was before the war, is the capital necessary to re-start industry."

This is the impression Sidney Brooks, American Relief administration worker, brought back from his recent trip to the chief city of the Ukraine, Brooks, who makes his home in New York, is the son of Mrs. F. B. Marone of San Francisco.

He has been in Russia some six months, his second trip. His first trip was last year, just when the American Relief administration feeding program had reached its peak of ten and a half million people fed daily. Now it has dwindled to three and a half million children, who will be carried through, even after it closes, until the fall, under present plans.

"The difference between Russia this year and last is enormous, if somewhat intangible," Brooks said. "You might say it was one of atmosphere. There is more hope and energy in the air. The people have more pep. It's like seeing a nation come to life again after a long illness. The Russians are shaking off the apathy which enveloped them during the famine. They are taking a normal interest in life in general and their own affairs in particular."

As an instance of their reawakened ambition in the city of Kiev alone, Brooks described their plans for a model children's home. Formerly it was a home for the aged, and during the war served as a military hospital. Its capacity is 5,000 children. There are already 700 children in it. The furniture consists of the barest essentials, beds, chairs and cooking utensils. It is a fresh and bright place, standing in an orchard and forty acres of farm land.

Urge Better Means of Caring for Veterans

CHICAGO, July 16.—Use of one-story hospitals at old Camp Ross, Great Lakes Naval Training station, for treatment by the government of mental cases among disabled war veterans is being urged on Washington officials by a committee of Chicagoans.

Before departure for the west, President Harding is said to have promised immediate action.

If the request is not met shortly the local committee will take steps to care of insane cases among Illinois veterans at Cooke County Psychopathic hospital, temporarily.

CLAIM HYPNOTISM BY RADIO POSSIBLE

NEW YORK, July 17.—An experiment designed to show that hypnotism can be practiced by radio and that the flow of blood in any part of the subject's body can be arrested, making a bloodless operation possible, was performed today before a group of newspaper men in the office of a magazine concerning itself with scientific subjects.

Operating from a radio station in the Ridgewood section of Brooklyn, the hypnotist focused his powers on a youth seated before the newspaper men.

Over the radio came the hypnotist's formula, ending:

"You are becoming rigid—quite rigid. You cannot resist. Go."

No physician was present, but a member of the magazine staff, who said he had studied medicine, waved a match in front of the subject's eyes, insisting that he did not blink and therefore was completely unconscious.

The youth was restored to normalcy and then put under again. His body was stretched across two chairs and the medical student sat on his stomach to prove that he was rigid. The human seat held.

Then the youth was put under the third time.

"I command the blood to leave your arm and flow into your body," came the order from the air. A needle was thrust into the flesh of the subject after it had been sponged with what the student said was an antiseptic. No blood appeared.

FIRES ON INCREASE IN SAN BERNARDINO

SAN BERNARDINO, July 17.—Fires representing a new high total in the amount of damage and in the number of calls were recorded at the Central fire station for the first half of 1923. With seven fires already recorded for the first few days of this month, indications are that the second half of the year will witness an equal increase.

There were 70 fire calls in the first six months of this year, this number establishing a new high total for a half-year period. Seventeen of these calls were recorded in June. Grass and rubbish fires led all other kinds by a wide margin. Fourteen of the 17 June fires were of this kind, as were 15 of the 22 in May.

The big two-day conflagration in the Santa Fe lumber yard boosted the fire loss of the city to a new high record for the six-month period. Railroad officials estimated the damage at $400,000. Other fires for the six-month period totaled approximately $21,000, according to estimates at the Central station.

Latest Invention Sends Handwriting By Telegraph Wire

PARIS, July 14.—Absolute facsimiles of telegraph messages in the original handwriting of the sender are now being sent every day over the French government lines by the Belin system, which is an adaptation of the inventor's method of transmitting photographs by wire.

The sender of the telegram writes it on ordinary paper which is placed on a revolving cylinder and by the play of lights and mirrors, as in the case of transmission of photographs, the exact script is sent over the wire.

In one case a stenographer sent from Lyons of Paris a message of 1,453 words, in shorthand notes, which was written on the cylinder of about the same size as an ordinary telegraph blank. In this way about one column of a newspaper could be sent for about $125. The operation of sending the stenographic message from Lyons took only six minutes.

This method of automatic transmission of telegrams is now open to the public, the necessary apparatus having been installed in the government telegraph offices of the larger cities. There is no reason why a person could not actually send his own photograph with an inscription in his own handwriting over the wire.

Thirteen-year-old Helen Briscoe is the latest girl sport prodigy. She flashed into the aquatic limelight recently when she defeated six star mermaids in the final heat of the 100-meter scratch race at Madison Square Garden. Her margin of victory was six inches.

WATER RESOURCES RAPIDLY UTILIZED

SACRAMENTO, July 17.—That activity in development of the water resources of the state is still proceeding at a rapid pace is evidenced by the large number of applications to appropriate water rights, state department of public works, during the fiscal year which closed June 30, 1922, it was suggested here today.

All appropriate water rights in California are now initiated through application to the division. The number received is a very good index to the rate at which new hydro electric power, irrigation, mining and water supply developments are being proposed, officials said.

During the fiscal year, 580 applications for permits were made a greater number than ever received in a like period since the creation of the office. These applications contemplate the use of 106,000 cubic feet of water per second, and the storage of 35,500,000 acre feet, at a total estimated cost approximating $125,000,000. Under them it is proposed to irrigate 4,600,000 acres and develop 3,000,000 theoretical horsepower, in addition to use by a number of mining and municipal water supply projects.

FLAMES DESTROY CHURCH
WEAVERVILLE, Calif., July 17.—Fire fanned by a swift wind destroyed the Catholic church here late yesterday with a loss estimated at $10,000. The building was insured for $7,000. Six nearby dwellings caught fire from embers blown by the wind, but were saved.

Game Survey Shows Grizzly Bears Are Fast Disappearing

TACOMA, Wash., July 16.—Survivors of the many thousands of their family which once roamed the forests of Washington and Oregon, but twenty-two grizzly bears remain, according to a census of wild life in the game preserves of the two states completed by the grazing department of the forest service, using reports gathered by forest rangers.

Although the grizzly bears are fast disappearing, the black and brown variety are on the increase, the report discloses. Two thousand mountain goats and 90 mountain sheep still roam the forests of the two states, while 1000 black tail, mule and Columbia white tail deer are increasing in the preserves. There are nearly 10,000 elk in the two states, while the only antelope located are in the Deschutes and Fremont National forests of Oregon. Despite hunters' reports, no caribou have been discovered in western Washington, the rangers reported.

OPPORTUNITY IS PRESENTED TO 'BRUSH UP' ON BOOKS

Vacationers Are Permitted by Library to Keep Out Volumes If Wanted

MANY USE PRIVILEGE
Expect Bigger Circulation
This Month Than Ever,
As Demand Keen

Sojourning for a week or two in the entrancing realm of the Spanish Main with its lurid Captain Kidd, its Blackbeard, its pieces of eight, or in the equally entrancing, but much more recent domain of the flapper and the "sheik" of New York, or in some other fascinating nook of fiction's dreamland—

All this will be entirely possible and not attended by a worry of any kind for the vacationist who likes his novel when he goes to the mountains or the seashore, and who borrows his books from the public library here.

There is no longer any need to fret about returning the volume to that institution by a certain time, it was made clear here today.

Special vacation privileges are allowed book borrowers who are going away on a vacation, Miss Jeannette E. McFadden, librarian, said.

Never Books Excepted
Books for vacation days have formed a large part of the demand on the library this month, she continued, adding that with the special-privilege borrowers and the usual increase in fiction reading, noticeable during the summer months, she expected this to be a record month for circulation.

"The special privilege granted to the vacationist permits him to keep the book until he returns from his trip to the mountains or seashore," Miss McFadden pointed out.

"The most recent and popular books, of course, are not given vacation status. Invertebrate readers, however, as well as the occasional reader, enjoy going back into the old files, as it were, for books they should have read and did not; or for some light piece of fiction that appeals to their vacation tastes."

Card Files Placed
"Travelogues and books on outings of all kinds are in demand by the vacationist. We keep a special file of cards of the vacation borrower. The titles show wide range in the summer reading; everything from the lightest in fiction to the heaviest in philosophy, are included."

The demand for children's books remains heavy, she said. Children are among the most constant habitués of the library building, according to an observer.

"This month should prove a record month in the history of the Santa Ana library," predicted Miss McFadden. "Our circulation, I feel sure, will exceed any previous summer month, and summer months always have been heavy. There has been a noticeable increase in the number and frequency of borrowers."

Children Chief Readers
"The increase also has been evident among those taking advantage of the vacation books privilege. I have no comparative statistics to show the increase, but I know that we have extended the vacation book privileges to a much larger number this year than before."

—And Santa Ana Grew

Compact Stories of Pioneers Who Built Enterprises on Firm Foundations That Tidal Waves of Depression Could Not Wash Away—The Future Was Anticipated.

REINHAUS BROS.

By TOM LEWIS

Santa Ana, city of unlimited possibilities, owes a lasting debt to the courage and resourcefulness of the sturdy pioneers who blazed the business trail in this community of promise more than forty years ago.

Chief among these are a number of well-known business men who still are active in the downtown district. The Reinhaus brothers—two of the original firm which began modest operations here more than thirty-five years ago—are counted among the city's most progressive merchants.

Coming to Southern California in 1875, the three brothers, popularly known as "G. M. and J.," brought to the retail drygoods and general merchandise trade a knowledge gained abroad and in the larger stores of New York. This knowledge, coupled with sound business methods, was used to excellent advantage in building up a substantial trade from the moment the firm opened its doors in a modest little shop on Fourth street.

Brother Extends Invitation
"We came from New York at the invitation of our brother-in-law, L. Gilman," said J. Reinhaus, discussing the early business history of Santa Ana with a Register representative.

"He, a stock buyer of wide experience, knew little of the retail trade in our particular line, but he realized in full measure the great possibilities of Santa Ana, which then had a population of less than 1000. In those days, lumber-corn-cris occupied the site where the West End theater now stands."

"With a stock of goods purchased by him in San Francisco, we launched our business ventures in the midst of a community given over largely to the growing of grain, and the raising of sheep and hogs. The San Joaquin ranch, of which C. E. French was manager, had more than 100,000 sheep. The backbone of the country lay to the south and southwest."

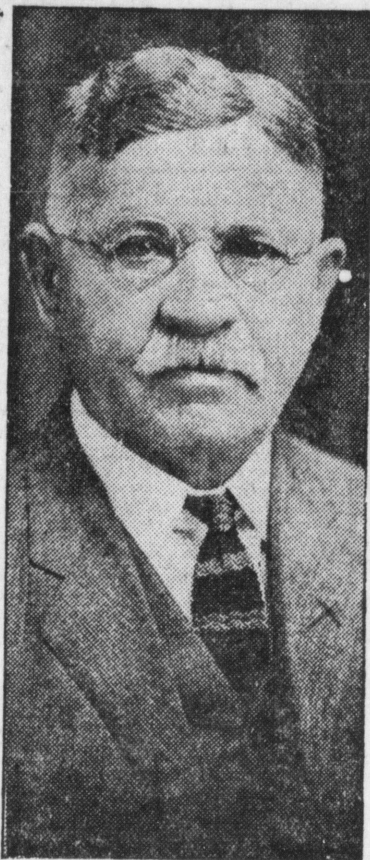

"At that time Santa Ana had no railroads and we had to go by stage to Anaheim, where we boarded trains for Los Angeles. Virtually all our shipments reached us by water and had to be hauled from Anaheim Landing and later from Newport."

Gold Monetary Standard
"Gold was the accepted standard and we seldom saw paper money. At that time, when Mr. Spreckels was getting rich, we paid stiff prices for sugar. It all came from Hawaii. Other things were high in proportion and money was scarce. Much of our business was done on a credit basis. A man's word was his bond. The public paid as high as 25 cents a package for soda; 25 cents a box for matches."

"Real estate values were low. Davis Cage paid something like $5,000 for the large piece of property now occupied by the Spicer store, at the corner of Fourth and Sycamore, where we formerly had a store. Gilman paid $150 for a small lot on which Mr. Spurgeon had a shack, where the American National bank now stands, at Fourth and Broadway. I wonder how many old-timers recall the barn that once stood on the rear of that lot?"

Weathered Storms
"To those of us who have watched its growth, Santa Ana has weathered some hard storms. For my part, I always have had the greatest faith in the city and its people. Our interests have been bound together for many years. If things seem a bit higher now, we have only to remember that times have changed, and we have

MAMA 'POSSUM HIES TO CLINIC TO REAR FIVE

Fails to Follow Doctor's Orders, but Decides She Will Live in Cellar

By FRANK DOWSETT

Raising o'possums has become the latest fad of Dr. John McAuley, it was learned today. The doctor has a healthy mother o'possum and five young ones as the nucleus of his flock.

He finds they have much to offer in temperament and problems characteristic of any family, whether human or animal. He provided them with a "nice" box in which to set up housekeeping. Do you think they would adopt his suggestion? Nothing doing. Just as contrary as the average family.

They preferred the "nice" cellar floor, with its romantic litter of this and that; last year's style, but comfortable.

Opossums Chose Him
Dr. McAuley did not choose the fad of raising o'possums. The o'possums chose him. That is to say the mother-o'possum saw the brass sign, or whatever it is, reading "Dr. John McAuley."

Next morning there was a mother-o'possum and five young ones in Dr. McAuley's cellar.

"Welcome," said the doctor, in his best professional manner, and immediately began to give directions to the nurse.

"But I suppose that old woman—the doctor was speaking of—the mother-o'possum—I suppose that old woman has no use for the modern practitioner of medicine," exclaimed Dr. McAuley, with an expression of hurt pride, but with a twinkle in his eye.

Ignores Advice
"No matter what advice I may see fit to give her, she continues to look after her young in her own sweet way. I offered her a home and she turned it down. It was just a box, of course, but it offered some indication of permanence. It would give the family a standing in the community, as it were. But she would have none of it."

"She is a healthy-looking mother. Her young also are showing great signs of growth. They are as big as rats already. It was Saturday when the family descended upon me—rather unceremoniously, I must say."

"Now they roam around the cellar with the help of mother. Three of them climb into her pouch, while the other two cling to her back."

"I believe that I shall donate the family to the Birch park zoo. They should prove a good addition to the growing collection of animals there."

SPANISH LANGUAGE IS CLASS FAVORITE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—Records gathered from the 612 colleges and universities in the United States listed by the Federal Bureau of Education reveal that 404 of them provide courses in Spanish, with more than 56,000 students pursuing the Spanish language courses. More than 1600 of the students are in the University of Texas. Five years ago the majority of these colleges were not offering Spanish.

This is an interesting sidelight on the development of American foreign relations. The war had something to do with popularizing Spanish as a language course. The German language had been a popular course with students previous to the war. But the feeling that the Germans had used these courses in American schools to disseminate German propaganda took away much of the interest students had in German. And naturally, the hostile sentiment aroused by the war toward everything German played its part in reducing the classes in German.

Spanish seems to have succeeded to the popular place of German even more than French, notwithstanding our close alliance socially as well as in a military way with France. Perhaps, it was because Spanish was easier to learn. But another factor in popularizing Spanish with students has been the growth in the cordial relations between the United States and Mexico and the other Latin-American countries.

"MAIL BRIDE" SEES LOVER, ASKS TO BE DEPORTED

NEW YORK, July 17.—Mrs. Maude Reeves, wooed by mail, came from England to wed J. Harris. She took one look and asked to be deported. Harris represented himself to the pretty 19-year-old English lass as "handsome, wealthy and influential." He is twice the age of my ideal," she declared. "It would be mockery to marry him. Deport me to England; my dream is over."

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Uncle Sam will let you make cider with a kick, but he won't let you drink it, legally. A regulation governing the home manufacture of cider was made public today by the prohibition bureau. It permits the manufacture of hard cider, but forbids its consumption for beverage purposes.

BIG FISH THIEF CAUGHT WITH 'GOODS'

There's many a fishing yarn that's worse than this:

Lee Arnold, woodworker employed by a creamery company here, stuck his expensive trout rod in the bank of Hemet lake, in Riverside county meanwhile eating lunch.

When he returned, he found his rod missing.

He hated to part with the outfit. It cost him a sizeable bit of cash. Besides, he had come to the lake to fish, not to sit around and watch others drag 'em out.

So he borrowed another outfit, put on a heavy sinker and began dragging for his own rod and reel, which he quite naturally supposed was reposing in the bottom of the lake.

In a short while he snagged the lost line, and began reeling in. In another short while a trout, three or four feet long, more or less, leaped out of the water and Arnold suddenly found himself with a large-sized job on his hands, hauling in not only his own lost outfit, but a big trout that had stolen it. Arnold brought the whole mess to shore safely. The trout weighed 6 1/4 pounds. Arnold caught two more trout, each weighing six pounds.

Arnold's father and Wayne Nelson were members of the expedition and are authority for this story.

ADMITS FIRING FRUIT PLANTS TO SEE 'FUN'

An alleged admitted fiendish craving for thrills that cost thousands of dollars in burned packing houses and other buildings, today appeared to have cost F. B. Padillo, 24, his liberty, temporarily at least, in view of his asserted confession to have been at the base of the spread fire epidemic in Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

His like for the excitement of a fire alarm, the dash of engines and the feverish action of firemen, Padillo was said to have admitted. At the same time he was purported to have said he fired various buildings, chiefly packing houses, in Anaheim, Fullerton, Riverside, Colton and San Bernardino. Padillo was said to have made his confession at Fullerton yesterday to Santa Fe railway detectives, who grilled him at the Fullerton jail. He was removed by the officers to Riverside for further investigation.

Among the acts of incendiarism attributed to him was the firing of the Casa Blanca school at Riverside, which was burned to the ground. A conflagration at the plant of the Superior Honey company, Riverside, also was said to have been started by Padillo, who was declared to have told of breaking into the building, starting the fire, and then boldly remaining to assist the firemen, showing them where the building's hose hung and giving other aid.

Padillo was arrested at Fullerton last week after six fires had been discovered in rapid succession, all being started by the use of oily waste taken from journal boxes of freight cars. Bits of waste and grease clinging to his finger nails, and smeared over his coat sleeves, formed the deciding bit of evidence that drew the alleged confession from the Mexican, it was said.

Since Padillo's arrest no fires have been reported.

Traverse Trail Whereon Great Fire Was Stopped

(BY TERRY E. STEPHENSON)

We are to ride today into a forest primeval. We are to ride out from the forest primeval into a forest devastated by fire.

"Smoke!"

This dreaded cry of those whose business it is to protect the mountains will be heard.

And we will come down off a steep ridge into a wonderful canyon of trees where the growth is luxuriant, perhaps more luxuriant than is to be found anywhere else in all Orange county.

This is to be the third and last of a series of articles detailing something of a journey off the beaten path. The first carried the readers from Yaeger's mine, in Trabuco canyon, over the Horsethief trail to the top of the ridge, and the second along that ridge southward to the Los Pinos potero.

We are headed now for our camp at Yaeger's. In the Trabuco. We have taken another satisfying look down upon the rolling pasture and oak groves of the potero, and are riding back upon a trail where the March fire was stopped.

Upon one side of us is the high heavy chaparral, scrub oak, buckthorn, an occasional scrub cherry, great masses of greasewood, which many of us have also known as chemes, or chemis. On the other is the black, desolate "burn."

"We will take a slice-off trail," declared Ed Adkinson as we came to a point on the eastern flank of Los Pinos peak.

A long tongue of the fire has wiped out a fine group of pines. We passed the edge of these dead trees along a trail built down to water by a forest service trail crew sometime during the winter.

Thus for a couple of hundred yards we followed a plainly marked trail.

And then we came to a mountain-side through which the fire had not run. It was steep and a mass of chaparral.

"There's a trail down through there," declared Adkinson. "I traveled it when I was a kid."

Adkinson was riding a horse that belonged to Jacob Yaeger, the Trabuco miner. Not knowing the horse's real name, we called him Jake, because he belonged to Jake.

Adkinson struck what looked like the beginning of the trail, and it proved so to be.

Follow An Unseen Trail
Into the brush we went. Most of the way the trail was entirely hidden with brush. Jake must have "feelers" in his forefeet, for though his head was above or in the brush, his feet unerringly kept the trail.

Rougher, steeper, harder underfoot—we went.

Nat. Nell's horse just ahead of me slipped on a boulder and went down on her haunches.

It was a wild bit of country into which we were riding. Giant spruces down the ravine raised their heads above a heavy growth of white oaks. The chaparral on the one side came down to the ravine, and on the other was white oak mingling in great clumps and masses with heavy chaparral.

We plunged into the bottom of the ravine, dodging beneath heavy branches. We climbed another slope, and went down into another ravine. The brush on either side was high and impenetrable. So overgrown with brush was the trail that all one could do was to shield his head with his arms, bend low and go ahead—either that or walk.

A stirrup caught in the brush.

Water to Facilitate More Rapid Drilling Flowing

S. A. MAN INTERESTED

Jog Made in Hole at 1100
Feet; Expect Result in 60 Days Under Plan

Marking an epoch in the history of the Tepathol Oil company and the W. K. Robinson ranch on the Trabuco mesa, on which the Tepathol has an oil lease, sufficient water today was flowing on the ranch and into the well of the company to make drilling operations easier. T. P. Kingrey of this city, one of the five men composing the company, declared the well now could be brought in within sixty days. A producer, he said, would open up one of the largest and best producing fields, perhaps in Orange county.

Drilling operations had been retarded by lack of sufficient water to keep the drill moving as fast as it should. With water in abundance the company today was making arrangements for putting on another "tour," operating two shifts.

Water Formerly Piped
The water had been piped from Trabuco creek, three miles from the well. Heretofore, water used in the drilling operations has been hauled two miles in a tank wagon, an expensive process, according to Kingrey.

With Charles Nevins, driller, in charge of the boring operations, the company recently started a re-bore of a hole that had reached a depth of 1900 feet. The log here, according to Kingrey, showed unmistakably that the company was certain of developing a real producer of high gravity oil. The old hole was said to have been crooked, and in re-boring, the new hole left, the old at 1098 feet. Gas is showing in the new hole, as it did in the old, Kingrey said. The bottom of the old hole was in shale. It was the expectation of the drillers that oil would have been discovered had it been possible to drive it two or three hundred feet deeper.

The Tepathol has virtually 800 acres of the Robinson ranch under lease, the remaining acreage of the 1200-acre ranch being leased to T. B. Raugh, wealthy resident of Los Angeles. According to Kingrey the showing in the old hole of the Tepathol company convinced Raugh that oil abounds in that district, and he is making preparations for beginning drilling operations on his lease.

"We are going to open up one of the largest and best fields in Orange county," Kingrey declared. "In my opinion the indications here are more favorable to oil discovery than they were at Huntington Beach or Santa Fe Springs. With two drilling crews working operations, we should reach the oil sands within sixty days."

The Register is already developing plans for a big County Fair edition, to be issued Monday, September 25, the day before the fair opens.

Everything points to the fact that the fair will be the largest fair ever held in Santa Ana. The Register proposes to make the special sections a countryside invitation to the fair.

flat toward a slope densely covered over with white oak. Adkinson and I strolled toward the forest, passed a clump where bark torn from a sapling was pointed out to me by Adkinson as where some buck had been cleaning his horns.

We walked a way along a trail that led into the white oak forest. And here one found a scene that seemed far away from anything we find elsewhere in Orange County. The oaks are not huge, like the live oaks with which our lower canyons are filled, but as far from beneath the trees, as we could see up the steep mountainside, were rough grey trunks holding a canopy of foliage unbroken by rays of sunlight.

The Scream of a Lion
"We camped near the spring when I was a boy," said Adkinson, returning. "We had a deer or two, and were enjoying camp, but I'll never forget that first night, for yonder in the brush we heard the scream of a mountain lion. If there is anything that makes a fellow's hair stand on end, it's the scream of a mountain lion. We saw his tracks afterward."

We left the spring, rode out soon from among the trees on to the stark, burned-over ridge between the forks of the Trabuco that come together at Yaeger's. "Smoke!"

George Harris and Adkinson, who are fire wardens, saw a column of white smoke coming out of the bottom of the canyon to the right. It was a puzzling smoke, for they judged that most of that area had been burned over. It was their instant opinion that fire had broken out in some log that had been smoldering since the big fire that had occurred exactly three months and a day before.

We hastened down the ridge, keeping to the old trail at the top. Down we went, through masses of blackened, twisted branches of dead manzanita, passing groups of big cone pine, many of them showing the marks of the fire, others entirely dead from the flames.

Adkinson left his horse, and went afoot down the mountainside, sliding in the soft ashes and loosened soil, while the rest of us went on to camp. It was approaching dusk. The trail dropped off to the right, and finally we came down into the fork, passing beneath a giant live oak whose top had been broken off in some terrific storm of the mountains.

A Wonder Canyon
We were in an out-of-door paradise. No fire had touched the mountainside ahead of us. Covered over with spruce, maple and white oaks and underbrush, the steep slope comes down to the rugged canyon bottom. The trail took us along a trickling stream, among rocks, live oaks, maples, sycamores and clumps and masses of chaparral. A garden of Matillija poppies, that we had seen from far up the trail, covered a rocky flat. Then a few rods on, the trail took through a bit of marsh grown three or four feet high with giant fern.

At camp, the horses were fed, and supper was on the fire, when Ed Adkinson came in. "A big spruce," he declared, "smoldered along until the tree fell over. After a few weeks the fire in the log reached the foliage, and this blazed up. The fire is in a steep pocket. It is burned all around, and it can't get away."

Holding that the driver did everything possible to avoid an accident, a coroner's jury empaneled by Coroner C. D. Brown today had cleared V. C. Tindell of Long Beach of all blame in connection with the death of John Burrillo, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Murrillo of Buena Park.

According to testimony given before the jury in Fullerton late yesterday, the boy, in playing with an old tire, failed to heed warnings given by Tindell, who was motoring from Anaheim to Long Beach when his car struck the child, near the intersection of the Anaheim-Long Beach and Hanson roads.

Tindell declared he sounded his horn, slowed down, and attempted to swerve his car, but the child, apparently panic stricken, ran directly in front of the automobile.

EDUCATIONAL WORK PUSHED BY LEGION

GREENVILLE, S. C., July 17.—The fight to bring white men and women illiterates of South Carolina to a higher level of education has been aided materially by the American Legion in the establishment of more than forty schools in the "opportunity" schools of the state, which are conducted for the aid of such persons.

When representatives of the state department of education appeared before delegates to the recent state convention of the legion held in Greenville, the operations of the Lander and Erskine "opportunity" schools were explained. The problem of illiteracy is serious in the Palmetto state, as there are 38,000 persons who are unable to read or write, and a host of others who have received little education.

It was proposed to the legion men assembled at the convention, that each post of state establish a scholarship. Without awaiting ac-

The smoke had been reported by the forest service lookout on Santiago peak, for soon Ed. Hunter and the two others from the Hunter ranch away down the Trabuco came up ready to fight the fire. Later Forest Ranger H. I. Snider, coming all the way from Coronado, arrived. We made our beds and went to sleep.

Snider was off at daylight and the rest of us followed later.

We walked along the trail, the lower part of Horsethief. "Look here!" called George Harris, pointing to tracks in the trail. "That black mule's back!" There was no doubt about it. The mule track topped the horse tracks our animals had made on the way to the potrero the day before.

The Mule Returns
"Now do you suppose that mule went ahead of us all the way to Los Pinos, and then came back last night?"

"There he is!" Yes, there he was, off the trail about fifty yards, back of us browsing contentedly in the brush. He raised his head, with his mouth full of food. He looked at us. Slowly one ear wagged and I fancied that he grinned.

Truly, the ways of a government mule are past understanding. For the first time in his life, the mule had left the Trabuco willingly. He left it the night before we were to have loaded him down with our camp outfit. And now he was back.

I'll hasten by the disposition of the spruce trunk, exciting though the incident was. The big spruce log was caught behind an upright spruce. The log was burning at both ends. Cut in two, the pieces of log went sliding down the slope and plunged off a rock embankment into the stream.

Returning, Forest Ranger Snider set up his heliograph and in a remarkably short time flashes from on top of Santiago peak were coming in response to his signals. Snider reported the fire out.

From this hilltop we had a fine view of the opposite side of the Trabuco. Part way up the mountain lies a small potrero, circled with trees. That whole mountainside invites one to exploration. Fascinating trails lead into the forest fastnesses, and on over the ridge into the headwaters of Bell canyon. Some day, perhaps, we will take these trails and make the closer acquaintance of this forest land.

The Canyon's Name
It would take pages and pages to trace the history of the Trabuco. Its story is intertwined with the story of the Franciscan mission, beginning with the passage of the Portola explorers in 1869, the first white men ever to see what is now Orange County. Its naming goes back to or nearly to Portola's arrival. One of the soldiers lost a blunderbuss. The Spanish name for blunderbuss is Trabuco. The canyon became the Trabuco, and throughout the Spanish and Mexican periods, the mountain that we know as Old Saddleback was called the Trabuco.

It was in later years that the mountain came to be known as Temescal, or Santiago, or Santa Ana, and it was a party of government surveyors who finally and officially fixed the highest peak of the range as the Santiago, and a lower peak, to the east of Santiago, was officially called "Trabuco," as we see it on our maps.

But today, we must leave the Trabuco, and in leaving it we declare our affection for it. It is a wonderfully fine canyon from the mission at San Juan Capistrano all the way up through its sycamores and its live oaks to the topmost reaches of its pines, its spruces, its white oaks, its maples and its chaparral.

tion on the part of local posts, the delegates subscribed to forty scholarships immediately, and support of the entire state organization was accorded the plan. The department led in the subscriptions with five scholarships. Greenville and Spartanburg posts each took four subscriptions as well as other posts. Many individuals offered scholarships, among these being Joe Sparks, chairman of the legion's national committee on rehabilitation, and Congressman James Byrnes. Subscriptions will be continued through the legion posts of the state.

changed with them. Now that Santa Ana has passed the 25,000 mark, I have no doubt as to its future. Santa Ana has had a steady growth, with few booms, and it will climb steadily toward its place among the great cities of Southern California.

"In the old days, when we had no banks here, we did most of our banking in San Francisco, where much of our trade was handled. It was from San Francisco that we got coal and salt, brought into port by great freighters plying between England and Australia.

Faith is Urged
Coal, brought from Sydney as ballast, could be handled at a freight cost of not more than 90 cents a ton. It did not cost us more than $12 or $13 a ton.

"Returning to England these freighters carried back thousands of tons of wheat grown in California and in the Pacific Northwest. In those days, San Francisco was one of the greatest grain markets in the world. Speculation then was not so much in the materials as it was in tonnage. Fortunes were made by men who could control this phase of shipping."

To those who ask him how to succeed in business, Reinhaus replies: "Be courteous, be diligent, be honest—and always have faith in yourself and your community."

(This is the second of a number of similar articles being published in The Register from time to time under identical heading.)

INDUSTRIES FOR COUNTY WILL BE TOPIC

J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, which proposed the gathering.

"No special speakers have been programmed; no special program has been arranged," the secretary said. "It will be a luncheon meeting for open discussion of the industrial situation, as seen by the executives of the county."

"Every chamber president and secretary of Orange county has been invited, as has the board of directors and the industrial committee of the Santa Ana chamber. The joint meeting of the executives should pave the way to greater industrial prosperity in the county."

"Though each city will continue to compete against its neighbors for possible industrial projects, there should be the possibility of co-operation in judging the value of new projects."

"The industrial committee of the Santa Ana chamber has investigated some industrial propositions. Its report will be made tomorrow, and this and allied matters are to be considered."

OBREGON ASSISTS LEGION IN MEXICO

INDIANAPOLIS, July 17.—President Obregon of Mexico, has issued a decree which permits the American Legion in that country to import duty free two hundred stones to mark the graves of American dead, including those who were killed in the war with Mexico, according to information received at legion national headquarters, in Indianapolis, from John L. Gill, of Tampico, commander of the legion in Mexico.

President Obregon has extended numerous courtesies to legion members in Mexico, according to national headquarters officials. He has received many delegations of legionaries at the presidential palace and has facilitated the work of the veterans' organization for the relief of former service men stranded in that country.

TIMBER SALE DUE IN PLUMAS FOREST

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—Another large timber sale is pending on the Plumas national forest, the local headquarters of the United States forest service, reported today.

This sale, an announcement says, involves about 121,000,000 board feet of sawtimber, mainly yellow and sugar pine, and is known as the Long Valley logging unit, the location being on the Feather river, near Blairsville.

The lowest price that will be considered is $4.50 per thousand feet for yellow and Jeffrey pine, $5.00 for sugar pine and $1.50 for the other miscellaneous species. The final date for bids is fixed as August 1, 1923. This is another of the big western sales that show the increased demand that is being made on the timbered states of the Pacific slope, due to the cutting out of the forests in the east and south, the announcement adds.

KEARNS ASKS THREE BOUTS FOR DEMPSEY

Wills, Firpo and Gibbons or Greb May Help Increase Champ's Purse

By HENRY L. FARRELL, (United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 17.—In need of a couple of good shots for the firm's pocketbook, Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, said today that the champion was going to fight three times before the end of the year.

Harry Wills, Luis Firpo and either Tommy Gibbons or Harry Greb are the fill-ins that Kearns is trying to get on his books.

Tex Rickard's proposition to get Dempsey and Firpo in the ring in Buenos Aires in November doesn't appeal to Kearns as much as a fight in this country. Neither does he want to wait that long.

"Dempsey and I have decided to get a date for Labor day and we are going to get it. If New York promoters can't stir up something, we'll go out to the Middle West and meet Gibbons or Greb," Kearns said.

After a conference with Rickard yesterday, Kearns said if Dempsey worked in New York against Wills or Firpo the champion would demand fifty per cent of the gate.

Tom O'Rourke, Jimmy Johnston and Rickard are all bidding for the champion's services, but as Kearns put it—"no one has shown us any dough."

Johnston wants to put Dempsey and Wills in the Yankee stadium around World's series time. He seems to have been given some kind of assurance that the boxing commission will sanction the bout.

Rickard says he is ready to stage Dempsey-Firpo fight in South America and that he has been assured that the gate will go over $300,000.

FAST RING PROGRAM AWAITS BEACH FANS

Jack McDonald, Who Fought at Shelby, to Meet Isman at H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 17.—The second boxing exhibition of the Huntington Beach Athletic club, in its new quarters, the old city garage, will be staged next Friday night, and judging from the lineup some interesting melees should result.

The main event promises to be a whirlwind affair with Jack McDonald of Seattle paired off with Sam Isman of Los Angeles to furnish the thrills. The men weigh 175 pounds.

McDonald fought in the preliminaries at Shelby, Mont., knocking out Ernie Sales of Minneapolis in the second round. This boy is a go-getter. He is young at the game but surely looks fine in the workouts. It is said that he doesn't believe in fooling around and his record backs him up. All of his fights have been won by the K. O. route in the early rounds. The fracas Friday night is scheduled to go four rounds, but fight fans of the oil city are predicting it to end sooner, although Isman is said to "have a kick like a mule" in his punches.

Ed Frenchy, colored, of Los Angeles vs. Louie Alverado, of San Diego, at 155 pounds, will go through the mill in the semi-wind-up. Frenchy is a regular cyclone, according to those who have seen him in action, and it is claimed by friends of Alverado that he is no small whirlwind himself.

A 125 pound event is next on the bill with Battling Hoppe of Huntington Beach scheduled to "knock the sox" off Packy Flynn, of Los Angeles. Hoppe is another clever little boxer and is right there with the goods. Promoter Louie Lawton says that he will soon have the boy fighting main events.

Three other bouts are on the card and sound equally as good. Harry Lee of Huntington Beach will weigh in with Hank Gaitton of Santa Ana at 165 pounds. Kid Mack of Los Angeles, will mix with Babe Orton of Anaheim in the 133 pound event.

Three Poly Girls Enter Sou. Calif. Tennis Tournament

Three girls, all members of the Santa Ana high school tennis team, will enter the Annual Southern California tennis tournament, beginning July 23, on the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis Club.

Josephine Crookshank, age 14, and Thelma Patton, age 15, will enter the singles event for girls 15 or under.

Newport-Balboa News

OIL FRANCHISE REQUEST HELD UP FOR WEEK

NEWPORT, July 17.—A forty year franchise of streets in Newport for oil line purposes, and a lease of the Newport pier, bids for which had been advertised, was discussed last night at a meeting of the city council.

Thomas W. Simmons, prominent oil exporter, entered a bid of $100 for the acquisition of the lease and franchise. The franchise, according to law, gives to the city after the first five years, a two per cent return on the users returns.

Clyde Bishop, city attorney, advised the council to postpone the acceptance for a week. This move was countered by Z. B. West, attorney for Mr. Simmons, who asked that the board consider the bid and accept it.

Mr. Bishop's move was carried, and the acceptance put over until next Monday, if at all.

"I wish to make some changes in the lease," Mr. Bishop explained.

According to plans of Simmons, the oil fields of Huntington Beach, San Juan Springs and all adjoining Orange county field would be tapped with a pipe line direct to Newport, and tankers loaded at the pier.

In the franchise which he seeks, he would be given the right to use specific streets for pipe line purposes.

COMPLAIN AGAINST FILLING STATION

NEWPORT, July 17.—Following complaint of a gasoline station at the Yacht club being on public property, the City Marshall was instructed by the council last night to stop the use of said pump immediately.

According to the complaint filed with the board, the pump is out on the sidewalk line, and not on private property.

LEGION MEN BACKED GIBBONS IN BATTLE

INDIANAPOLIS, July 17.—That the sympathies of war veterans were with Tommy Gibbons in his recent combat with Jack Dempsey is indicated by reports from state conventions of the American Legion, received at national headquarters of the veterans' organization in Indianapolis.

Legionnaires of South Carolina in convention assembled, wired congratulations to Gibbons for his showing against the world's champion, who is unpopular with veterans because he served in the shipyards during the war. A resolution regretting that Gibbons "failed to knock Jack Dempsey's block off," was adopted by the executive committee of the Arizona department.

Zoning Balboa Is Proposed to City

NEWPORT, July 17.—Zoning of Balboa Island was presented to the city council at their meeting last night in the form of a tentative report, outlining the proposed restrictions to be placed upon the establishment of manufacturing concerns in the two districts on the island.

According to the report, district number one will be exclusively residential. District number two will contain garages, machine shops for the repairing of automotive engines, general stores, all classes of stores, and such commercial establishments as do not constitute a nuisance.

According to the report, any manufacturing place which would be the emanating point for obnoxious or gaseous odors; noise, smoke, dust and dirt, and any offensive condition, would be barred from the island.

The matter will be heard before the next meeting of the council on July 23 at 7:30 o'clock.

Fish Shipping at Newport Increases To Larger Cities

NEWPORT, July 17.—Newport is growing as a fish shipping point, it was stated today.

Every morning at sun up, visitors at the beach can see the fishermen pulling out in their boats, fighting through the breakers, and out into the waters beyond.

About 9:30 o'clock, they bring their catch into the fish market at the pier.

A small days' catch is about 1,000 pounds. Usually, the nets bring in 5,000 pounds or more.

These fish are immediately packed, loaded into a waiting car, and shipped daily to the large markets at Los Angeles, San Francisco and Stockton.

"It is not generally known that Newport is one of the largest fish shipping points on the coast," a veteran said.

"However, we supply the fresh fish demand daily of these large cities," he added.

COMPLETION OF PAVING WORK IS NEARING

NEWPORT, July 17.—The $500,000 paving project of Newport Beach, work on which has occupied the last year, is nearing completion, it was announced today by the city engineer. With the exception of one small piece of concrete work, the surfacing of a few alleys, the job is done.

The California Construction company of San Diego has had the contract. According to attaches of the city engineer's office, approximately ten miles of concrete paving has been paid in the year.

Over a mile of this paving is forty feet wide, twice the width of the state highways, and is eight inches thick throughout.

Coast boulevard is paved from Twenty-second street to Forty-fifth street at this time. A proposed state highway will be constructed, ending opposite the Coast paving across the Santa Ana river at that point. According to the office, a bridge will be built connecting the two.

This will provide a route to Los Angeles which will be ten miles shorter than any existing route through Newport Beach.

News from Orange County

HARDING TO BE HONOR GUEST OF KNIGHTS

FULLERTON, July 17.—A large delegation of Knights Templar of Fullerton will join members of other Orange county commanderies in participating in a ceremony arranged in special honor of President Harding at the Hollywood bowl, Thursday evening, August 2.

On the date mentioned, according to present plans, Marion Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar of Marion, O., of which organization the president is a distinguished member, will present to Hollywood to Marion Commandery No. 55, what is popularly known as the international traveling Beausant. Fully 100 Orange county lodge members, including those from Fullerton, Santa Ana and Orange will be in attendance to witness the impressive ceremonies. E. L. Bowers, head of the Santa Ana commandery, will be in charge of the delegation from the southern section of Orange county.

The Beausant is a slaken banner, two and one-half feet in length, the upper half and the lower half a white field in ritualistic significance of the Beausant, which is known to all Knights Templar.

Banner on Tour
The idea of sending the banner around the world was conceived by Eminent Sir John A. Cowan of Toronto, Nov. 24, 1922. St. John's Commandery, with an escort of more than 300 swords and a band, made a pilgrimage to Washington, and with appropriate ceremonies, entrusted it to the keeping of Columbia Commandery No. 2 of that city.

Later, the Washington Commandery, with an escort of 200 Sir Knights, transferred the banner to Marion Commandery No. 36, which proudly claims the president of the United States as a frater.

In Hollywood, when the banner is brought to Southern California, the Grand Commandery of California will honor the occasion and the president's visit with one of the greatest demonstrations ever staged in the United States.

Virtually all the commanderies of Southern California, as well as many of the northern organizations, will be present at the huge bowl in Hollywood. According to advance information, the escort which will accompany the Beausant from Marion will number thirty, including the officers and the president's escort. In addition, the Eminent Prior of the Preceptor of Toronto, Canada, which was the first Templar body to receive the banner, will accompany the party.

The Beausant already has an interesting history, although it has scarcely started on its pilgrimage around the world. As it is to be presented in turn, in the temporary custody of one commandery in each grand jurisdiction of Knights Templar throughout the world, it may take half a century to complete the journey. A beautiful embossed record book accompanies the banner, so that when the pilgrimage is completed its great history will have been written.

Indians Fearing Witchcraft Kill Member of Tribe

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 17.—From the mountain fastness of Pushmataha county, where the trail of progress is slow, comes a story to the Indian agency recently rivaling the legends of the state's aborigines.

David Houston, 90-year-old full-blood Choctaw Indian, was killed because those of his blood believed he was guilty of witchcraft, according to weight of evidence.

Houston, a recluse, was owner of 320 acres of land. Johnnie Hobson, 20, full-blood, was apparently suffering from rheumatism. His joints stiffened and red spots appeared upon his feet.

Johnnie had been shot by a "witch-hall," the medicine men declared, pointing to the red spots on either foot. "In three days time," the warned "the witch will send a bird or an animal. The bird or animal will report back to the witch the condition of the boy. Kill that bird or animal."

For three days the Indians watched. Upon the third day a bird alighted upon the roof of the Hobson home. The bullets missed their mark and the bird escaped. It was reported to have flown to ward Houston's home.

The next night Houston, hearing a noise, stepped from his door to investigate and fell dead under a hail of buckshot.

Five persons were arrested, but later released because of insufficient evidence. Agency officials are authority for the statement that Houston began a speedy recovery immediately following Houston's death.

Smile Unites Couple Separated 42 Years

LOS ANGELES, July 17.—The memory of a smile carried forty-two years, reunites Victor Johnson and his sister, Agda Johnson, who separated in Stockholm, Sweden. Johnson ran away smiling. He went to Mexico and became prosperous. He registered at a local hotel and as the clerk handed him his key, he smiled. Mrs. Agda Merrill of Kentfield, Calif., nee Agda Johnson, nearly fainted when she saw Johnson's smile. Both are smiling today.

Orange Man Sucks Snake Bite, Knife Used to Gash It

ORANGE, July 17.—A heroic bit of surgery was performed in the hills above Orange county park when Thomas Kelly, 28 years of age, local resident, used a pocket knife on his leg after he had been bitten by a rattlesnake.

After slashing the wound almost to the bone, Kelly sucked the poison from the incision, while his companion, E. G. Amos, applied a crude tourniquet just above the wound. When Kelly was brought to a physician, after a thrilling ride from the canyon more than ten miles away, his leg was numb and swollen almost to twice its normal size. The physician, after giving him medical treatment, stated that his heroic action undoubtedly saved his life. Kelly was hunting when the attack occurred. Just as he was about to step over a bush, Kelly caught sight of the rattler coiled to strike. Before Kelly was hardly aware of his danger the snake struck, the fangs sinking into his right leg just above the shoe top.

While many rattlers have been seen in the hills surrounding the county park this year, no attacks had been reported before. Kelly, before attending to his wound, killed the snake which was more than five feet long. The rattler, Kelly said, gave no warning before striking.

SEEK TO LEARN REQUIREMENTS OF NEW PIER

L. E. Gates, city engineer of Huntington Beach, today was making soundings off the end of the pier there to determine the extension necessary to have a water depth of forty feet, it was learned here.

The sounding was made at the instance of the city council, as a preliminary to the proposed extension of the wharf in compliance with a petition signed by 303 voters of the oil city.

When the length necessary is determined the city engineer will prepare plans and specifications and make an estimate of the cost of the proposed work, under present plans, and a request for permission to increase the length of the pier will be filed with the war department in the immediate future.

The petition of residents requests the city council to call an election to vote bonds for the improvement, which is proposed as a means of making Huntington Beach available to big ocean-going steamers and, at the same time, provide better fishing for disciples of the rod and reel.

Mayor Richard Drew announced today that the council, without doubt, would grant the petition. The city engineer, it was expected, will make a preliminary report to the council at a meeting to be held Monday evening of next week.

PARK CITIZENS HONORED BY FRIENDS

BUENA PARK, July 17.—When the friends of W. T. Callaway surprised him last week, on the occasion of his ninety-third birthday anniversary, they brought several birthday cakes because all the candles would not go on one. He received many useful gifts and many bouquets of flowers.

Mr. Callaway has been a resident of Buena Park twenty years, living next door to his adopted son, R. A. Callaway on Orange-thorpe and Western avenue. The Callaways bought twenty acres on this corner and have lately subdivided it, selling one half and one acre lots.

His formula for keeping young is plenty of work and often walks to the business part of town, which is a mile from his home. He has been married three times and has four children. As he is quite active as he, he expects to live longer than his mother who lived to be one hundred and two years and who did not hesitate to cross the plains when seventy-five years old in an ox caravan.

Mr. Callaway was born in Callaway county, Missouri, and is proud of the fact he helped put Lincoln in the presidential chair. Being the only one of his family to vote the republican ticket shows he had the courage of his convictions. He still takes an active interest in public affairs and is always at the polls at election times.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Michael Pendean, husband of Jenny, disappears and Robert Redmayne, uncle to Jenny, is suspected of murder. Mark Brendon, criminal investigator, is in charge of the case, Robert roams at large.

Jenny goes to live with her uncle, Bendigo Redmayne. Robert visits Bendigo's neighborhood and sends for his brother to meet him in a nearby cave. Giuseppe Doria takes his master to the meeting place and leaves the two brothers together. When Doria calls for Bendigo he finds both men missing and evidence of a terrible struggle in the cave.

Jenny marries Doria and they go to live in Italy, where Jenny's uncle, Albert Redmayne, lives. When Robert is seen in Italy Brendon and Peter Ganns, famous American detective, renew investigations.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"NONE whatever. Doria is amazingly handsome and attractive—the type a woman generally worships. I grant that Italian marriages are not remarkable for their success; but—well, no doubt Jenny's husband is world-wise. He has everything to gain by being good, everything to lose by behaving badly. Jenny is a proud girl. I hope to see much of her, though it appears that their home will be in Turin."

"He has abandoned his ambitions to recover the family estates and title and so forth? Brendon told me all about that."

"Entirely. Besides it seems that one of your countrymen has secured the castle at Dolceacqua and bought the title too. Giuseppe was very entertaining on the subject. But I'm afraid he loves idleness."

Before luncheon Mark Brendon returned from the hills with his guides. They had seen nothing of Robert Redmayne and appeared to be rather weary of one another's company.

"You must impart your wisdom and gay spirit to Signor Marco," said Giuseppe to Mr. Ganns, when Brendon was out of earshot with Jenny. "He is a very dull dog and does not even listen when I talk. Not simpatico, I suppose. He will never find out anything. Will you, I wonder? Have you any ideas? A new broom sweeps clean, as you say."

"A very cute notion," declared Peter. "Well rope you in, Giuseppe. Between you and me and the post, our friend Brendon has been barking up the wrong tree, you know. But if you and I and he, together, can't clean this up, then we're not the men I take us for."

Doria laughed.

It was not until after the midday meal that Ganns and Mark were able to get speech together. Then, promising to return in time to meet Virgilio Poggi, who would cross the lake for tea, the two men sauntered beside Como and exchanged experiences. The interview proved painful to the younger, for he found that Peter's doubts were cleared in certain directions.

"Do you begin to see any light?" asked Mark.

"Not much upon the main problem. A minor feature has cleared, however. I know the rock you split upon, my son. You were in love with Jenny Pendean from the moment you knew that she was a widow. And you're in love with Jenny Doria now. And to be in love with one of the principals in a case, is to handicap yourself out of the hunt, as far as that case is concerned."

"We know some things without proof and are proud to talk them on trust," answered Brendon.

"Have I not seen Mrs. Doria under affliction and in situations unspeakably difficult? She buried her own crushing grief."

"And in nine months was married to another man."

"She is young and you have seen for yourself what her husband is. Who can tell what measures he took to win her?"

"Well, don't ask much; but since I have picked up this thing for Albert's sake, there's one point on which I insist. If you are going to take Jenny into your confidence and assume that she has no wish or desire other than to see justice done and the mystery cleared, then I can't work with you, Mark."

"You wrong her, but that doesn't matter. I suppose what does matter is that you're wrong me," said Brendon, with fierce eyes fixed upon the elder. "I've never thought or dreamed of confiding in her, or anybody else. I'm a detective first and last and always over this business; and I have some credit in my painful profession."

"Good. Remember that, whatever happens. And keep your temper with me, too, because nothing is gained by losing it. I'm not saying a word against Mrs. Doria, but inasmuch as she is Jenny's Doria and inasmuch as Doria is yet an unknown quantity to you and me, you must understand that I don't allow appearances to blind my eyes or control my actions. It looks all right; but suppose, for their own ends, Jenny Doria and her spouse want to create the impression that they are not friends?"

"My God! What would you make of her?"

"It isn't what I'd make of her. It's what she really is. And that I'm going to find out, because a great deal more may depend upon it than you appear to imagine."

"I have—and could not see how it was likely to contain anything dangerous to Robert Redmayne." Peter did not enlighten him for the moment. Then he spoke and changed the subject.

"I must find out several fundamental facts and I certainly shall not learn them here," he said. "Next week in all probability, unless something unexpected happens to prevent it, I go back to England."

"You want me to look after Mr. Redmayne?"

"No, I look after him. He's my first care. I have broken it to him yet; but he's going with me."

Ganns considered and then proceeded.

"I must give you a clear understanding, I'm so used to playing a lone hand and

APPLE MEN ARE OPTIMISTIC OVER CROP

COSTA MESA, July 17.—The Costa Mesa Apple Growers association expect a banner year, according to a report of the secretary given out today. They expect from 15,000 to 20,000 boxes in the association, an amount which will eclipse the run of ordinary years.

Quality Very Good

The quality, too, is said to be exceptionally good, the trees and apples being remarkably free from disease and worms. Arrangements have been made with the Taylors Ice Storage Plant of Santa Ana to take entire capacity of the plant, which will probably be about 12,000 boxes.

As usual tickets will be sold to regular customers of Orange county so that they can buy in small amounts at different times. It will be approximately two months before there will be much activity but they are already making plans for the future.

To Hire Manager

Negotiations are being made with three different apple men to take charge of the plant as manager. One of these men will probably be selected very soon. The association expects to hire about a dozen packers, install up-to-date graders and will probably wrap the apples.

It is a little too early to estimate the price but, according to the poor conditions prevailing elsewhere the market price should be better than usual.

CIVIC CLUB WOMEN HAVE SUMMER WORK

COSTA MESA, July 17.—The Friday Afternoon Club of Costa Mesa, although enjoying a vacation until the first Friday in September from regular meetings,

Costa Mesa Roads May Be Gravelled for Fifteen Miles

COSTA MESA, July 17.—Plans which have been pending for two or three months regarding the graveling of Costa Mesa roads, are approaching a more mature state by the announcement that the Chamber of Commerce is planning to form a road district for that purpose.

Mr. McBride, county engineer, and Mr. Jefferies, county supervisor, have been looking over the roads and inspecting available gravel supplies.

It is thought that gravel will be supplied from the Costa Mesa bluff. This is a big undertaking and the contract could not be made until assured of sufficient gravel at the bluff. There would be about fifteen miles of road in the district to be gravelled. It is one of the most ambitious undertakings recently tried in that field and will mean much to the county, if successful.

can by no means be said to be inactive.

The club is very active at all times, its purpose being to provide a Community center and provide clean, wholesome entertainment for the children.

In order to further this purpose effectively during the summer months the club has been divided into sections, each of which is devising some interesting method that will entertain.

One section superintends the dances which are held every two weeks on Saturday evening in the Community Club House; another has planned a musical and ice-cream social to be given early in August.

Another is planning to give a play written by one of the members about the same time.

The officers of the club are: Mrs. E. L. Quinn, president; Mrs. C. J. Huston, vice-president; Mrs. C. A. Wilkinson, recording secretary; Mrs. F. E. Russell, corresponding secretary; Miss Alice Plummer, treasurer.

The club now has a membership of eighty but expect that to be increased very soon to a hundred.

MESA REALTORS REPORT SALES VERY RAPID

COSTA MESA, July 17.—The real estate dealers of Costa Mesa, although varying somewhat as to the average price of lots, report good business and assume a note of optimism in regard to the near future.

Quiet Not Felt

The general quiet which has affected much of the county during the last two months has been felt to only a small extent here.

Lots are constantly being sold at prices ranging from $500 to $1500. Several homes are nearing completion and others are being planned.

J. B. Helmsing and W. W. Hayes of Corona, are contemplating building on lots purchased from F. E. Russell, realtor here. Prices are not being inflated but values are good and all bargains are being rapidly absorbed. Tracts are being cut up and subdivided. One of the latest of these is the five-acre plot known as the Myreham tract on Seventeenth street east of the boulevard. This is being cut into lots less than half-acre in size. The Zeck tract, which was opened about three weeks ago, is developing rapidly. Streets are being put through and pipes laid for water.

Easterners Interested

Many inquiries are being received daily by Costa Mesa realtors from parties in eastern and northern states regarding lots. It is also rumored that many San Diego people are becoming interested in Costa Mesa because of the Mitchell, Bower and Fulkerson well number one, in which Mr. Fulkerson of San Diego is interested. It is reported that the well produced better than two hundred barrels of oil, and that the well produced b.h.d. LzETA the owners were very well pleased with it. More derricks are being planned.

NON-STOP TRIP FROM S. F. TO GOTHAM. AIM

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—A solo transcontinental airplane flight, without a stop between Crissy field, San Francisco, and Mitchell field, New York, is what Claire K. Vance, United States air mail pilot between San Francisco and Reno, Nev., plans to perform this summer.

In his proposed flight, Vance will use a plane built entirely by himself during the past year, based on plans selected from all known data on airplane construction, driven by a motor he purchased with his own funds. Every bit of wood, metal and wire which has gone into the plane's construction has been purchased by Vance with funds from his own pocket.

Vance describes his proposed flight with the air of a young father going over the points of a newly delivered son.

"I don't know where I got the idea, but it came to me about a year ago," he said, "that I'd like to hang up one record while I'm young and healthy. Ever since I was a kid in school I've wanted to be a first-class aviator. I suppose I have been flying-crazy."

To Cross in 24 Hours

"Transcontinental flying is the big thing now. Owing to the difference in time between the east and west coasts, the carrying of mail and other matter which cannot be sent by wire, is delayed in transmission even with the relay system we use in the air mail. I thought it would be a good stunt if somebody could fix up a plane which would get across the country in one day of 24 hours. Then I got to thinking that maybe I could pull it off."

"The plane is the thing in a cross-country flight. Sufficient gasoline to run the motor for the distance to be traversed, a strong motor that will do its stuff, and an airplane so built as to curves as to help the motor as much as possible and afford the necessary speed are necessities. It's simple enough, but there's co-ordination needed that can be found now only in the large planes such as the T-2. The real problem of successful and speedy and economical flying, particularly transcontinental flying, lies in the development of the small plane."

Favors Teuton Plans

So, in a shop on Greenwich street, Vance began the building of his plane. After poring over a mass of data, Vance leaned to Teuton construction for wing curves, designed his fuselage so that he could get in a gasoline tank of the necessary capacity, made arrangements for his motors and started work.

It was early this spring before he and a few volunteer mechanics, who helped in their spare time, could complete the building of the plane itself. The first flight proved successful, but two Salmson motors he had bought at a high figure developed ailments and it was found that grease smeared over the parts within the motor had hardened during their period of non-use and had to be cleaned out.

This was done with both motors and both were tested in the plane and found to work only fairly well. It is this motor trouble that has delayed a flight, which probably will not be held until August.

Carries 350 Gallons

The plane itself is a peculiar-looking bird, but is a revelation in maneuvering in the air. Its wings are thick, the upper being of one piece, the lower of three pieces with the center rigidly anchored to the fuselage. The fuselage itself has a prolate nose, keeping a long oval stream-line shape to its very tail. The big gasoline tank, to hold 350 gallons, will be placed in the forward part of the fuselage behind the motor and forward of the driver's seat.

The 9-cylinder Salmson motor develops 250 horsepower and a speed of 122 miles an hour when the plane is fully loaded, increasing its appetite for mileage as the load grows lighter with the consumption of gasoline. The motor is water-cooled, the radiator, which sits between the spoke-like cylinders and the propeller, holding fifteen gallons of water.

Although clumsy as it appears on the ground, in the air Vance's plane is almost swallow-like in its movements and, according to the builder and pilot, handles with remarkable ease. Thorough tests which have been given it have all proven successful, Vance claims.

Vance places a value of $12,000 on the plane—which weighs 4300 pounds gross, fully loaded, with the pilot in his place.

Was In World War

Vance himself has had an interesting air career. He enlisted in the flying corps shortly before the United States entered the World War, and trained at several fields in the central west. From Chino, Field, Ill., he was sent overseas, where it was discovered that he possessed the unusual faculty of being able to fly any make of plane with little or no instruction. He was made an instructor at Tours, aiding American aviators in mastering the temperamental peculiarities of French planes. He held the rank of first lieutenant.

Thus he lost a chance to do any fighting or observation work, but after the armistice he piloted one of the photographic planes that mapped the entire front for army war college records.

Upon returning to the United States and receiving his discharge, Vance went into commercial flying and from that into the air mail service. He has flown over every leg of the air route west of Cleveland. He is only 26 years old and unmarried.

Only Two Accidents

Only two near-accidents have occurred to Vance in his six years of flying. Once, when he was attempting to hop-off at Elko Springs, Nev., with Eddie Rickenbacher as a passenger, the plane slipped and was wrecked, but both he and Rickenbacher escaped without injury. On another occasion Vance was battling a 90-mile gale high over the Sierra range in Nevada when he ran out of gasoline. He glided several hundred feet into a valley, landing his plane on a frozen lake coated thickly with snow. The spot was only a few rods from a transcontinental line flag station at Soda Springs, so he transferred his mail to the limited and carried it into Reno.

News from Orange County

HARDING TO BE HONOR GUEST OF KNIGHTS

FULLERTON, July 17.—A large delegation of Knights Templar of Fullerton will join members of other Orange County commanderies in participating in a ceremony arranged in special honor of President Harding at the Hollywood bowl, Thursday evening, August 2.

On the date mentioned, according to present plans, Marion Commandery No. 36, Knights Templar of Marion, O., of which organization the president is a distinguished member, will present to Hollywood Commandery No. 55, what is popularly known as the international traveling Beasant. Fully 100 Orange county lodge members, including those from Fullerton, Santa Ana and Orange will be in attendance to witness the impressive ceremonies. E. L. Bowers, head of the Santa Ana commandery, will be in charge of the delegation from the southern section of Orange county.

The Beasant is a silken banner, two and one-half feet in length, the upper half and the lower half a white field in ritualistic significance of the Beasant, which is known to all Knights Templar.

Banner on Tour
The idea of sending the banner around the world was conceived by Eminent Sir John A. Cowan of Toronto. November 2, 1922, St. John's Commandery, with an escort of more than 300 swords and a band, made a pilgrimage to Washington, and with appropriate ceremonies, entrusted it to the keeping of Columbia Commandery No. 2 of that city.

Later, the Washington Commandery, with an escort of 200 Knights, transferred the banner to Marion Commandery No. 36, which proudly claims the president of the United States as a frater.

In Hollywood, when the banner is brought to Southern California, the Grand Commandery of California will honor the occasion and the president's visit with one of the greatest demonstrations ever staged in the United States.

Virtually all the commanderies of Southern California, as well as many of the northern organizations, will be present at the huge bowl in Hollywood.

According to advance information, the escort which will accompany the Beasant from Marion will number thirty, including the officers and the president's escort. In addition, the Eminent Prior of the Preceptor of Toronto, Canada, which was the first Templar body to receive the banner, will accompany the party.

The Beasant already has an interesting history, although it has scarcely started on its pilgrimage around the world. As it is to be placed, in turn, in the temporary custody of one commandery in each grand jurisdiction of Knights Templar throughout the world, it may take half a century to complete the journey.

A beautiful embossed record book accompanies the banner, so that when the pilgrimage is completed its great history will have been written.

Indians Fearing Witchcraft Kill Member of Tribe

MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 17.—From the mountain fastness of Poshmataha county, where the trail of progress is slow, comes a story to the Indian agency recently rivaling the legends of the state's aborigines.

David Houston, 90-year-old full-blood Choctaw Indian, was killed because those of his blood believed he was guilty of witchcraft, according to weight of evidence.

Houston, a recluse, was owner of 320 acres of land. Johnnie Hobson, 30, full-blood, was apparently suffering from rheumatism. His joints stiffened and red spots appeared upon his feet.

Johnnie had been shot by a "witch-bill," the medicine men declared, pointing to the red spots on either foot. "In three days time," the warned "the witch will send a bird or an animal. The bird or animal will report back to the witch the condition of the boy. Kill that bird or animal."

For three days the Indians watched. Upon the third day a bird alighted upon the roof of the Hobson home. The bullets missed their mark and the bird escaped. It was reported to have flown toward Houston's home.

The next night Houston, hearing a noise, stepped from his door to investigate and fell dead under a hail of bullets.

Five persons were arrested, but later released because of insufficient evidence.

Agency officials are authority for the statement that Hobson began a speedy recovery immediately following Houston's death.

Few Changes Seen In Styles In Big Furniture Display
CHICAGO, July 17.—Furniture of the Tudor, Queen Ann and Louis XVI periods will continue to hold popular favor for American bedrooms, while that of the Italian and Grecian periods will be used for living rooms, according to the Chicago Furniture Manufacturers' association, holding its summer show here.

The new year will bring out no changes in American furniture; no outstanding features are evident, as at most exhibitions. In the past, Creation of "frank" furniture is also on the decline. The only contribution along this line is a "King Tut" table, made of mahogany and with Egyptian lines and legs representing old Egyptian vases.

No decrease from the present price of furniture is in sight. The cost of plate glass and other materials caused an increase ranging in some lines as high as 25 per cent last spring, and there is little likelihood of a return to the old level within the next year, officials of the show said.

Chicago is now the leading furniture market in the world value of the annual output totaling $50,000,000.

Orange Man Sucks Snake Bite, Knife Used to Cash It

ORANGE, July 17.—A heroic bit of surgery was performed in the hills above Orange county park when Thomas Kelly, 28 years of age, local resident, used a pocket knife on his leg after he had been bitten by a rattlesnake.

After slashing the wound almost to the bone, Kelly sucked the poison from the incision while his companion, E. G. Ames, applied a crude tourniquet just above the wound. When Kelly was brought to a physician, after a thrilling ride from the canyon more than ten miles away, his leg was numb and swollen almost to twice its normal size. The physician, after giving him medical treatment, stated that his heroic act undoubtedly saved his life. Kelly was hunting when the attack occurred. Just as he was about to step over a bush, Kelly caught sight of the rattler coiled to strike. Before Kelly was hardly aware of the danger the snake struck, the fangs sinking into his right leg just above the shoe top.

While many rattlers have been seen in the hills surrounding the county park this year, no attacks had been reported before. Kelly, before attending to his wound, killed the snake which was more than five feet long. The rattler, Kelly said, gave no warning before striking.

SEEK TO LEARN REQUIREMENTS OF NEW PIER

L. E. Gates, city engineer of Huntington Beach, today was making soundings off the end of the pier there to determine the extension necessary to have a water depth of forty feet, it was learned here.

The sounding was made at the instance of the city council, as a preliminary to the proposed extension of the wharf in compliance with a petition signed by 303 voters of the oil city.

When the length necessary is determined the city engineer will prepare plans and specifications and make an estimate of the cost of the proposed work, under present plans, and a request for permission to increase the length of the pier will be filed with the department in the immediate future.

The petition of residents requests the city council to call an election to vote bonds for the improvement, which is proposed as a means of making Huntington Beach available to big ocean-going steamers and, at the same time, provide better fishing for disciples of the rod and reel.

Mayor Richard Drew announced today that the council, without doubt, would grant the petition. The city engineer, it was expected, will make a preliminary report to the council at a meeting to be held Monday evening of next week.

PARK CITIZENS HONORED BY FRIENDS

BUEBNA PARK, July 17.—When the friends of W. T. Callaway surprised him last week, on the occasion of his ninety-third birthday anniversary, they brought several birthday cakes because all the candles would not go on one. He received many useful gifts and many bouquets of flowers.

Mr. Callaway has been a resident of Buena Park twenty years, living next door to his adopted son, R. A. Callaway on Orange-thorpe and Western avenue. The Callaways bought twenty acres on this corner and have lately subdivided it, selling one half and one acre lots.

His formula for keeping young is plenty of work and often walks to the business part of town, which is a mile from his home. He has been married three times and jokes his wife about having his fourth picked out. As she is quite as active as he, he expects to live longer than his mother who lived to be one hundred and two years and who did not hesitate to cross the plains when seventy-five years old in an ox caravan.

Mr. Callaway was born in Callaway county, Missouri, and is proud of the fact he helped put Lincoln in the presidential chair. Being the only one of his family to vote the republican ticket shows he had the courage of his convictions. He still takes an active interest in public affairs and is always at the polls at election times.

Posts Abroad Help American Legion Men

INDIANAPOLIS, July 17.—American Legion posts in France and England are doing remarkable work in aiding American former service men, according to Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch, of Indianapolis, who has just returned from Europe where he represented the national commander of the American Legion at a number of ceremonies in honor of American soldiers.

"Many of these former soldiers remained in Europe when the armies came home, some married over there, and many of them are in hard straits," he said. "The members of the posts, although limited in means, are doing much to help their former comrades. In fact, the legion is highly regarded throughout Europe, and especially it is held in high esteem by the officials of the former allied countries."

APPLE MEN ARE OPTIMISTIC OVER CROP

COSTA MESA, July 17.—The Costa Mesa Apple Growers association expect a banner year, according to a report of the secretary given out today. They expect from 15,000 to 20,000 boxes in the association, an amount which will eclipse the run of ordinary years.

Quality Very Good
The quality, too, is said to be exceptionally good, the trees and apples being remarkably free from disease and worms. Arrangements have been made with the Tule River Storage Plant of Santa Ana to take entire capacity of the plant, which will probably be about 12,000 boxes.

As usual tickets will be sold to regular customers of Orange county so that they can buy in small amounts at different times. It will be approximately two months before there will be much activity but they are already making plans for the future.

To Hire Manager
Negotiations are being made with three different apple men to take charge of the plant as manager. One of these men will probably be selected very soon. The association expects to hire about a dozen packers, install up-to-date graders and will probably wrap the apples.

It is a little too early to estimate the price but, according to the poor conditions prevailing elsewhere the market price should be better than usual.

Costa Mesa Roads May Be Gravelled for Fifteen Miles

COSTA MESA, July 17.—Plans which have been pending for two or three months regarding the graveling of Costa Mesa roads, are approaching a more mature state by the announcement that the Chamber of Commerce is planning to form a road district for that purpose.

Mr. McBride, county engineer, and Mr. Jefferies, county supervisor, have been looking over the roads and inspecting available gravel supplies. It is thought that gravel will be supplied from the Costa Mesa bluff. This is a big undertaking and the contract could not be made until assured of sufficient gravel at the bluff. There would be about fifteen miles of road in the district to be gravelled. It is one of the most ambitious undertakings recently tried in that field and will mean much to the county, if successful.

can by no means be said to be inactive.

The club is very active at all times, its purpose being to provide a Community center and provide clean, wholesome entertainment for the children.

In order to further this purpose effectively during the summer months the club has been divided into sections, each of which is devising some interesting method that will entertain. One section superintends the dances which are held every two weeks on Saturday evening in the Community Club House; another has planned a musical and ice-cream social to be given early in August.

Another is planning to give a play written by one of the members about the same time. The officers of the club are: Mrs. E. L. Quinn, president, Mrs. C. J. Huston, vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Wilkinson, recording secretary, Mrs. F. E. Russell, corresponding secretary, Miss Alice Plumer, treasurer.

The club now has a membership of eighty but expect that to be increased very soon to a hundred.

MESA REALTORS REPORT SALES VERY RAPID

COSTA MESA, July 17.—The real estate dealers of Costa Mesa, although varying somewhat as to the average price of lots, report good business and assume a note of optimism in regard to the near future.

Quiet Not Felt
The general quiet which has affected much of the country during the last two months has been felt to only a small extent here.

Lots are constantly being sold at prices ranging from $500 to $1500. Several homes are nearing completion and others are being planned.

J. B. Helmsing and W. W. Hayes of Corona, are contemplating building on lots purchased from F. E. Russell, realtor here. Prices are not being inflated but values are good and all bargains are being rapidly absorbed. Tracts are being cut up and subdivided. One of the latest of these is the five-acre plot known as the Myreham tract on Seventeenth street east of the boulevard. This is being cut into lots less than half-acre in size. The Zeck tract, which was opened about three weeks ago, is developing rapidly. Streets are being put through and pipes laid for water.

Easterners Interested
Many inquiries are being received daily by Costa Mesa realtors from parties in eastern and northern states regarding lots. It is also rumored that many San Diego people are becoming interested in Costa Mesa because of the Mitchell, Bower and Fulkerson well number one, in which Mr. Fulkerson of San Diego is interested. It is reported that the well produced better than two hundred barrels of oil, and that the well produced b.h. DalzETA the owners were very well pleased with it. More derricks are being planned.

NON-STOP TRIP FROM S. F. TO GOTHAM, AIM

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—A solo transcontinental airplane flight, without a stop between Crissy field, San Francisco, and Mitchell field, New York, is what Claire K. Vance, United States air mail pilot between San Francisco and Reno, Nev., plans to perform this summer.

In his proposed flight, Vance will use a plane built entirely by himself during the past year, based on plans selected from all known data on airplane construction, driven by a motor he purchased with his own funds. Every bit of wood, metal and wire which has gone into the plane's construction has been purchased by Vance with funds from his own pocket.

Vance describes his proposed flight with the air of a young father going over the points of a newly delivered son.

"I don't know where I got the idea, but it came to me about a year ago," he said, "that I'd like to hang up one record while I'm young and healthy. Ever since I was a kid in school I've wanted to be a first-class aviator. I suppose I have been flying crazy."

To Cross in 24 Hours
"Transcontinental flying is the big thing now. Owing to the difference in time between the east and west coasts, the carrying of mail and other matter which cannot be sent by wire, is delayed in transmission even with the relay system we use in the air mail. I thought it would be a good stunt if somebody could fix up a plane which would get across the country in one day of 24 hours. Then I got to thinking that maybe I could pull it off."

The plane is the thing in a cross-country flight. Sufficient gasoline to run the motor for the distance to be traversed, a strong motor that will do its stuff, and an airplane so built as to curves as to help the motor as much as possible and afford the necessary speed are necessities. It's simple enough, but there's co-ordination needed that can be found now only in the large planes such as the T-2. The real problem of successful and speedy and economical flying, particularly transcontinental flying, lies in the development of the small plane."

Favors Teuton Plans
So, in a shop on Greenwich street, Vance began the building of his plane. After poring over a mass of data, Vance leaned to Teuton construction for wing curves, designed his fuselage so that he could get in a gasoline tank of the necessary capacity, made arrangements for his motors and started work.

It was early this spring before he and a few volunteer mechanics, who helped in their spare time, could complete the building of the plane itself. The first flight proved successful, but two Salmson motors he had bought at a high figure developed ailments and it was found that grease smeared over the parts within the motor had hardened during their period of non-use and had to be cleaned out.

This was done with both motors and both were tested in the plane and found to work only fairly well. It is this motor trouble that has delayed a flight, which probably will not be held until August.

Carries 350 Gallons
The plane itself is a peculiar-looking bird, but is a revelation in maneuvering in the air. Its wings are thick, the upper being of one piece, the lower of three pieces with the center rigidly anchored to the fuselage. The fuselage itself has a prolate nose, keeping a long oval stream-line shape to its very tail. The big gasoline tank, to hold 350 gallons, will be placed in the forward part of the fuselage behind the motor and forward of the driver's seat.

The 9-cylinder Salmson motor develops 250 horsepower and a speed of 122 miles an hour when the plane is fully loaded, increasing its appetite for mileage as the load grows lighter with the consumption of gasoline. The motor is water-cooled, the radiator, which sits between the spoke-like cylinders and the propeller, holding fifteen gallons of water.

Although clumsy as it appears on the ground, in the air Vance's plane is almost swallow-like in its movements and, according to the builder and pilot, handles with remarkable ease. Thorough tests which have been given it have all proven successful, Vance claims.

Vance places a value of $12,000 on the plane—which weighs 4200 pounds gross, fully loaded, with the pilot in his place.

Was in World War
Vance himself has had an interesting air career. He enlisted in the flying corps shortly before the United States entered the World War, and trained at several fields in the central west. From Chinook Field, Ill., he was sent overseas, where it was discovered that he possessed the unusual faculty of being able to fly any make of plane with little or no instruction. He was made an instructor at Tours, aiding American aviators in mastering the temperamental peculiarities of French planes. He held the rank of first lieutenant.

Thus he lost a chance to do any fighting or observation work, but after the armistice he piloted one of the photographic planes that mapped the entire front for army war college records.

Upon returning to the United States and receiving his discharge, Vance went into commercial flying and from that into the air mail service. He has flown over every leg of the air route west of Cleveland. He is only 26 years old and unmarried.

Only Two Accidents
Only two near-accidents have occurred to Vance in his six years of flying. Once, when he was attempting to hop-off at Elko Springs, Nev., with Eddie Rickenbacher as a passenger, the plane slipped and was wrecked, but both he and Rickenbacher escaped without injury.

On another occasion Vance was battling a 90-mile gale high over the Sierra range in Nevada when he ran out of gasoline. He glided several hundred feet into a valley, landing his plane on a frozen lake coated thickly with snow. The spot was only a few rods from a transcontinental line flag station at Soda Springs, so he transferred his mail to the limited and carried it into Reno.

SUCCESSFUL PROHIBITION

A member of the cabinet of one of the provinces of Holland and a representative of the Dutch Society for the Abolition of Alcoholic Drinks have recently returned to their own country after an extensive study of prohibition enforcement and public opinion in 25 different states here. Their conclusions are of genuine interest. They write:

"While we have recognized that prohibition is not perfectly observed or enforced any more than the Ten Commandments are perfectly observed or your laws against stealing or murder are perfectly enforced, yet by way of contrast with Continental Europe it was plainly apparent that prohibition is already a thorough, practical success, with every indication that it is becoming more willingly observed and more effectively enforced.

"One thing, however, which it seems the average American who believes in prohibition and is interested in the fight to abolish the saloons is ignorant of, is that the liquor interests are apparently very busy in an attempt to regain control. It seems to us that you people are complacently letting the liquor people rob you of the great benefits of your dry law—benefits which perhaps are more apparent to outsiders than to yourselves."

This is no doubt a very good criticism of the American attitude. Yet a change has begun, perhaps even while these men are investigating. Citizens who believe in prohibition are waking up to the fact that they cannot sit back and let this particular law run itself any more safely than they can let any other law do so. Continuous, whole-hearted support and the intelligent backing of all loyal citizens is necessary in the enforcement of any law or ideal of government.

U. S. Budget Best

Notwithstanding the American budget system is only two years old while that of Great Britain is more than 200, it can be truthfully asserted that the American system is the best in the world. Of course the United States had the advantage of studying the provisions and the practical working of the British system when our own was framed. The British system has been the growth of many years of experience and has been improved from time to time, but still has some defects which even its supporters recognize.

That the American system is highly effective has been demonstrated by results. Not only have our finances been balanced by making expenditures come within the income, but the executive departments have been so accurate in their estimates, and the co-operation between the executive branch and the legislative branch has been so harmonious that the appropriations come within less than two per cent of the estimates of the budget bureau. This is a remarkably close approach to the estimates when it is remembered that the total was more than three billion dollars and there is no limitation whatever upon the right of Congress to make any changes it may deem best. The appropriations were slightly under the estimates submitted by the director of the budget.

There are two important respects in which the American system is superior to that of the British. One of these is the power which the President has, by virtue of his constitutional authority and authority given him by act of Congress, over the co-ordination of the work of the several departments of the government. One official of the budget bureau is known as the chief co-ordinator. Under the leadership of this officer representatives of the forty-three bureaus and boards and commissions conducting government business meet for conferences regarding government business in which they have a common interest. At such conferences plans are made for elimination of duplication, removal of competitive bidding for supplies, interchange of unused supplies, etc., with the result of saving millions of dollars and at the same time increasing efficiency.

Another important feature of superior merit in the American system is its flexibility. Under the British system when the tentative draft of the budget is made up it goes to the cabinet for final approval and is then laid before the House of Commons. The budget is subject to discussion by the minority but if any material change is made without the consent of the administration that change results in a resignation of the cabinet and the forming of a new cabinet by the group successful in outwitting the supporters of the budget. In its operation, therefore, the British system means the enactment of the budget practically as submitted. Under the limitation of debate a large portion of the British budget is adopted without any discussion or consideration whatever in Parliament.

The American system provides for the exercise of a large measure of judgment by Congress. In fact when the last budget was under consideration Congress nearly doubled the appropriations recommended for river and harbor improvements but made equally large reductions in other items of expense. The American system assumes that the judgment of Congress may be better than that of the members of the budget bureau. Even members of the budget bureau whose judgment was overruled by Congress commend the flexibility feature of our system. In England there has been a strong movement towards recognizing the right of Parliament to change the budget estimates without such changes being considered a vote of lack of confidence in the administration.

DESERTING SAILORS AND BOOZE

Sailors are said to be deserting foreign ships in American ports to the extent of hundreds every week, and signing up on American ships. So serious has this practice become in the British merchant marine that the British government is taking steps to prevent it.

The sailors' contract requires that they shall finish a voyage. It is announced that those deserting and sailing on other ships to British ports will be arrested for breach of contract. Action of this sort was threatened when the Leviathan sailed with a couple of hundred English deserters in her crew.

This is a curious situation, especially in its bearing on the prohibition problem. Foreign crews almost invariably have liquor rations. It has been urged against American prohibition that it would make more difficult the obtaining of crews. Yet we find the crews greatly preferring the American vessels.

They do it because of the higher pay and better labor conditions provided under the American seamen's law. Obviously sailors as a class cannot care so much for liquor as tradition would make them, and the land of prohibition and good pay scores an unexpected advantage.

Business conditions look good to the average citizen, but the usual number of people are still hoping for the worst.

Riverside's Pavement Problem

Riverside Enterprise.
The different chambers of commerce of Riverside County are making a serious effort to determine just what they should recommend to the board of supervisors in the matter of protecting the permanent highways that were secured by the county highway bond issue. The committee of the county chamber of commerce has prepared a referendum ballot that is now being considered by many civic bodies throughout the county. Some of them are having the referendum sent to each of their members, in order that it may have the most careful consideration by each member.

The least that can be hoped for is $450,000 expended on the highways already paved to save them. Some of this should be available at an early date.

The first bond under the old bond issue amounts to $300,000 and will be paid off in 1925, therefore, will have to be allowed for in next year's tax levy. The final bond will not be paid until 40 years from the date of the issue of the bonds. These bonds carry interest at 5 per cent and when the issue is retired, the interest will total more than the original bond issue of $1,125,000. On the other hand, it is estimated that it would cost many thousands of dollars more to build the same highways at this time.

Truck and other heavy traffic has resulted in breaking down the four inch concrete slabs. They must be thickened and in some places should be widened. To protect the investment in these roads, there should be something done immediately. A short time bond issue, say 10 years, as suggested in the county chamber of commerce referendum, for about half of the proposed $450,000 and allowing for the balance to be met out of direct tax and automobile and gas money, seems the best compromise to meet the situation with.

The total bonding capacity of the county at present is less than $800,000. It certainly would not be good business to use much more than half of it up at this time.

The committee presenting the proposition to the civic bodies for recommendation has determined that the cost of meeting the repairs and other improvements for the next three years, by direct tax would mean a minimum of 37 cents on the $100 assessed valuation. The $450,000 bond issue for the next three years would cost approximately 17 cents per $100 valuation, while the cost for part bond and part direct tax would cost 27 cents per $100 valuation. In other words, the bond plan would cost less for the three year period than any other. On the other hand, the cost after the first three years would be more.

At present it costs the county from $15,000 to $20,000 per year for patch work on the surfaces of the different paved roads of the county. This money is only of temporary benefit and in the minds of many road men will be materially lessened by the careful resurfacing of the entire strips where paving is now badly broken.

Maintaining Our Standard

Riverside Press.
The week beginning July 16 and ending July 21 will be "Quality First Week" for the California Fig and Peach Growers' Association, and the event calls attention to the efforts being made not only by this association, but by other co-operative organizations and independent shippers, to stress quality in all California products. Demonstrations, exhibits and discussions will feature the week for the fig and peach interests, and an effort will be made to educate growers, packers and shippers in placing on the market the year the best pack of dried peaches and figs that has ever been shipped from the state.

There are 8500 individual members in the association, and each has been asked to take an interest in the demonstrations and attend the meetings called. Two objects are aimed at. The first is an effort to reduce the cost of handling fruit through the elimination of sorting charges to the grower, and, secondly, to inform the growers definitely regarding grades which meet with the greatest favor in American markets. It is hoped by the association management that returns to growers will be increased from 10 to 20 per cent by carefully sorting when the dried peaches and figs are taken from the drying trays.

Association and exchange brands are coming to mean something in the markets of the United States and foreign countries as well. The famous Sunkist brand of the California Fruit Exchange on a box of oranges or lemons is a guarantee to the purchaser that high quality and uniform pack may be expected. The same is equally true of the Sun Maid raisins, Sunsweet prunes and Diamond brand walnuts. The associations not only work for the highest quality of California products, but through co-operative buying, packing, shipping and selling they make it possible for the growers to receive the maximum prices for their fruit and nuts.

Make Examination Real

San Francisco Chronicle.
Captain Henry Gleason, head of the San Francisco Traffic Bureau, touches the weak spot in the armor of automobile laws when he complains of the inadequacy of examinations in this state to test the qualifications of applicants for license to operate motor vehicles. The existing law is a farce in so far as it operates to determine one's ability as a driver of an automobile. Until such time as provision is made for a real test of ability and fitness, Captain Gleason contends, "the seemingly inevitable death toll will go on."

An automobile is not a toy. In the hands of a child or any person lacking in experience and mature judgment it may become a terrible engine of destruction. The law cannot guard against reckless driving. It can only provide punishment. At best there always will be accidents and deaths. The law can, however, see to it that no person is granted an operator's license until he or she has demonstrated the necessary ability to drive and to think in emergencies.

What Bank Clearings Show

Riverside Press.
A city's bank clearings furnish an infallible index of the city's prosperity. And by that same token Riverside is prosperous.

The published statement of Riverside's bank clearings for the six months ending June 30, tells a conclusive story of the city's activities. The total of $18,755,130.69 is a figure that Riversideans may view with real complacency. The figures reveal the fact that money for fruit, merchandise and real estate purchases is passing from hand to hand and that this money has brought prosperity in its wake.

Coupled with bank clearings for the half year is the building record of $847,631. As creditable as this showing is, there is reason to believe that the end of the year will see an even better figure. The $100,000 "like" building and other important buildings, together with the normal growth in new homes should boost the last six months over the first half year.

Yes, Riverside is doing very nicely, thank you!

The Parable of the Redwood Tree

By Leon L. Loofbourrow, of Burlingame, Cal.

The groves were God's first temples. They still call men to worship, and teach them in many parables.

Now learn a Parable from the Redwood Tree:
He was centuries old in Abraham's day. His life was half lived when the Star of Bethlehem led the Wise Men to the infant Savior. Yet he stands here in our California still, speaking to all who have ears to hear. These are the things he told me—the secrets that have made his the oldest of all God's living things:

To be content with small beginnings, for his seed is as tiny as the mustard's;
To be patient with slow development, for he grows but a very inches each year;
To stand straight, for only low trees can afford to lean or stoop.
To grow so tall as to live always in the sunshine, for it is the underbrush that hides God and the sun;
To outlive every hindrance, for while fire, storms, and lightning kill other trees, he survives;
And never to stop growing.

Worth While Verse

Work!
Thank God for the might of it,
The ardor, the urge, the delight of it.
Work that springs from the heart's desire
Setting the brain and soul on fire.

Oh, what is so good as the heat of it,
And what is so glad as the beat of it?
And what is so kind as the stern command,
Challenging brain, and heart and hand?

Work, the Titan; Work, the friend,
Shaping the earth to a glorious end,
Draining the swamps and blasting the hills,
Doing whatever the Spirit wills—

Rending a continent apart
To answer the dream of the master heart.
Thank God for a world where none may shrink;
Thank God for the splendor of work!

IN THE LONG AGO

From the Register Files

July 17, 1909

About forty residents of Tustin have petitioned the Board of Supervisors to put a stop to the cutting of shade trees in Tustin. The petition, headed by A. H. Stutsman, president of the Tustin Improvement association, declares the big street trees make "beautiful Tustin" distinctive.

Santa Ana Elks took a topnotch part in the big Elks national parade in Los Angeles. William Menton, esquire of the lodge, carried the banner. The float was an immense orange. Girls in the float were Misses Henrietta Young, Reba Dobson, Helen Ebanks, Georgia Barnes, Hays Fleming, Mary and Margaret Wakeham, Dordley Page and Gertrude and Louise Montgomery.

J. G. Quick has sold sixty-two acres on the east side of South Main street for a half mile south of the sugar factory to W. A. Crane, of Los Angeles, for considerably more than $12,000.

A Skillful Shark

By W. E. Allen, of La Jolla, California Biological Feature Service.

I have never seen but one thresh-er shark and it was only visible for a few seconds but in that brief time it gave an exhibition which was both interesting and extremely rare.

The creature is especially notable because it has a tall the upper part of which is prolonged into a straplike affair of about the same length as the remainder of the animal. Such a curious appendage has caused a good deal of guessing as to its possible usefulness. Some observers seem to have thought that it was valuable to the animal for frightening schools of fish into a compact mass where they might be easily captured.

Others have declared that the tail is used for beating a whale into insensibility or submission when large thresh-er sharks (thirty feet long or more) combine with sword fish in attack on a whale.

Fishermen who have tried to capture thresh-er sharks have been more impressed when the use of the tail as a means of defense or escape. In fact, the animal has undoubtedly received one of its common names because of the way that it threshes about when men try to capture it. Certainly such a tail helps to give speed in swimming also.

The specimen which I saw was only six or seven feet long and in the little time that I could see the body it reminded me strongly of our ordinary soup fin shark, except for differences due to such a long tail.

My first view was of the tail only. I was taking my daily collection at the end of the Serrips Institution pier when I heard a splash and saw a disturbance in the water about fifty yards away. A moment later a sleek, shiny, straplike object was flung above the surface and waved violently for an instant. I had never seen anything like it and the performance was most uncanny. In a moment the object was again waved in the air briefly. Then all became quiet and I went on with my work wondering what the thing could have been.

About twenty minutes later while straining some water through a net of fine silk I saw about fifty feet from the pier a small fish (about ten inches long, possibly a California smelt) swimming frantically just beneath the surface. Close behind came with incredible speed what first appeared to be a soup fin shark but which was soon distinguishable as a thresh-er shark. It darted along until about half way past its victim when it made a sudden turn of the head down and somewhat sideways and gave a whiplike stroke with its tail which made the water boil about the little fish.

Apparently the fugitive was slightly injured but it may have been only confused or dazed. Before I had time to judge as to that another stroke had been made which was clearly injurious since the victim stopped swimming and turned aimlessly about in the water.

By that time the fish was almost under the stream of water from my net which seemed to frighten the pursuer so that it disappeared and was seen no more. The victim floated upside down for a while, turned about feebly now and then, and finally came with head to the surface where it lay gasping for some moments after which it revived sufficiently to swim away and disappear.

After making a stroke the shark's tail was waved momentarily above the water while the animal was getting balanced after such a powerful blow. That accounts for the mysterious movements which I had first seen.

From this performance it seems certain that the long tail has usefulness of the most definite and high importance. In fact, a highly specialized tool for capturing prey and it is used with remarkable skill. Even after seeing it so plainly the accuracy of the blows at a flying target seems almost incredible.

TYPHOID SHOWS DECREASE

Control of typhoid fever has reached such a stage in the United States that in 1922 the death rate for this disease was the lowest ever recorded, according to a life insurance company.

The typhoid death rate in 1922 was 5.6 per 100,000 among the millions of industrial policyholders who comprise about one-seventh of the total population of the United States and Canada, according to the figures. The report goes on:

"There is every indication that a similarly favorable condition occurred in the general population of these two countries. In fact a study recently made by the American Medical association shows that to have been the case in the populations of the larger cities of the United States, the typhoid fever rate of 1922, was among the policyholders one-sixth lower than that for 1921, and was less than one-fourth as high as in 1911. Had the rate of 1911 (22.8 per 100,000) prevailed in 1922, there would have been 3,161 deaths instead of the 779 that actually occurred.

"The most favorable death rates, from typhoid fever prevailed in the New England, Middle Atlantic and in the east-north central states. Not one death from this disease occurred among policyholders in Vermont and only three occurred among the large number of policyholders in the District of Columbia.

Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, all showed favorable conditions. Excellent rates are found also in some of the western states, notably Wisconsin and Minnesota, where no deaths were recorded, and Michigan, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Montana, Utah and the three Pacific coast states.

"The excessive typhoid fever prevalence is now limited, in the main, to the southern and central regions of the United States and to two eastern provinces of Canada.

Indians Wealthy

Tribally and individually the Indians of this country are the richest of all races. They own 7,000,000 acres of valuable lumber lands located in fifteen states which contain wood, said to be valued at $100,000,000. The Indian forests in extent are equal to the combined area of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Arizona, New Mexico, Wisconsin, Idaho, California and Minnesota. This together with other property owned by the Indians brings their per capita wealth up to $2400. In the past 10 years the returns for timber lands to the Indians averaged $1,500,000 and the amount is increasing constantly.—Exchange.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 11—THE RIMIES.

The next place Mister Sky Bow took the Twins to in Rainbow Land was the town where the Rimies lived.

They were funny looking little folk with long hair and spectacles.

The Twins knocked on the door of the first house they came to and a Rimy answered it.

"Why, how do you do,

"And pray who are you?" he asked.

"Answer him with a rime if you can," whispered Mister Sky Bow to Nick.

"We came here to see

"This strange countree," said Nick, and I think it was pretty good poetry for a little boy, don't you?

"Then come in and be seated

"Till the kettle I've heated," invited the Rimy.

"Oh, we can't just now, thank you," said Nancy. "We're traveling and can't stop."

Suddenly the Rimy slammed the door and was gone.

"Wh-what's wrong?" asked Nancy. "What did I do?"

"You forgot to speak in poetry and offended him," explained Mister

Sky Bow. "Here comes another. Now remember what I told you."

But before Nancy could say another word, the Rimy began,

"The cat had no king

But the king had a cat,

Now, please tell me, sirs,

Where do you live at?"

"On the other side of the rainbow

In a nice, white house with a big front door,"

answered Nancy quickly, not forgetting this time.

"That won't do," said the Rimy shaking his head. "In poetry you can't use the same word twice. Try again."

"In a nice white house with a-a-aas I said before," Nancy declared breathlessly.

"Fine! Fine!" said the Rimy.

"Now, as I am the Grand High Rimy, I will make you both Rimies, the greatest honor you can have."

And he touched them both on the head with a small stick.

"Come, come, most honorable Rimies," called Mister Sky Bow, "we must be going."
